There Is A Fountain Filled With Blood

A troubled poet prays for his soul

William Cowper suffered all of his 69 years. Due to a weak constitution, he suffered physically. Due to uncontrollable melancholia, he suffered mentally. He believed that God had doomed his soul beyond redemption. This belief drove him to attempts at suicide and he was committed to insane asylums four times. He had studied law but could not plead cases because of stage fright, and his speech was impaired by lisping and stammering. Yet, when he had control of his faculties, William Cowper produced poetry that placed him among the foremost of England's literary giants. The world can thank, among others, the Reverend

John Newton . . . the one-time sailor and slave trader ... for bringing out the best in Cowper. While Curate at the town of Olney, Newton gave the poet a home

> There is a fountain filled with blood, Drawn from Immanuel's veins, And sinners plunged beneath that flood Lose all their guilty stains.

The dying thief rejoiced to see That fountain in his day; And there may I, tho' vile as he, Wash all my sins away. and put him to work. He built him a house in a gar-den back of his residence where the strange little man played with rabbits and talked with birds. He encouraged and collaborated with him in writing hymns for weekly prayer meetings. Thus came into being the famous collection of "Olney Hymns" . . . among which is found some of the finest work in English During the early part of the last century Composer

Lowell Mason . . . who spent his youth as a bank clerk in Savannah . . . cast about for poems to set to music for his Boston choirs. Among his selection was William Cowper's "There is a Fountain Filled With Blood." The little poet had died, still praying for his soul in 1800. But he had written hymns that were to carry his name through the ages . . . among them being-

E'er since by faith I saw the stream Thy flowing wounds supply, Redeeming love has been my theme And shall be till I die.

Then in a nobler, sweeter song I'll sing Thy pow'r to save, When this poor, lisping, stammering tongue Lies silent in the grave.
