Humphrey Owen Passes Away Musical Circles Mourn Tenor

E. Humphrey Owen, 86, passed quietly away at his home on Lehman Avenue Sunday morning, following a brief illness.

Members of the Welsh musical world, as well as close friends and neighbors of E. Humphrey Owen are mourning his passing. He had a magnificent tenor voice, cultivated over long years in London, where he was a member of the Choral Society headed by Sir Henry Wood. After coming to the United States he was soloist at Grace Church and at St. Stephens.

Totally blind for nearly six years, Mr. Owen was nonetheless active, getting about Dallas with the aid of a cane, until the onset of cold weather.

It was October 4 that marked the sixty-second wedding anniversary of Mr. Owen and the bride he took in London in his youth, the former Emma Burden. The couple had lived in Dallas for twelve years.

A printer by trade, he left his homeland of Caernarvon, Wales, when avenues of advancement closed, and came to the United States, where he founded the Caxton Press, now Llewellyn's.

A founding father of the Prince of Peach Church, Mr. Owen was honorary senior warden. He was a member of many Welsh circles, usually attending the annual Welsh outing at Irem Country Club. This was the first year he had missed for a number of years.

He was a member of Kingston Lodge, 395, F&AM, Knights of Malta, Keystone Consistory, Irem Temple and his Chanters.

Mr. Owen is survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Jack Sewell and Mrs. Florence Lloyd, Kingston; and Mrs. J. M. Horner, Forty Fort. There are three grandchildren, two great-grand daughters, three great grandsons, and one great-grandniece.

Private funeral services were conducted Tuesday from Doron-Hughes Funeral Home, Kingston, by Rev. William Williams, followed by interment in Denison Cemetery, Forty Fort.

Annex Gets Gavel
 Frank Jackson, noting Miss Frances Dorrance's attempts to call the annual meeting of Back Mountain Library Association to order two weeks ago, went home and turned on his lathe a beautiful black walnut gavel for use of organizations using the Library Annex.

The gavel has with it a black walnut base, protected by green felt, so that gavel pounding will not ruin the head table.

 Charles Metzger, injured two days later and a patient at Nesbitt Hospital for two weeks, has been back on duty for some time.
