

News of the Churches

THE DALLAS METHODIST

The Christian Church was built upon the fact of Jesus Christ, His life, death, resurrection, and continued presence and upon His teaching. The Church at its best has always sought to know the mind of Christ as found in His teaching. The pronouncements of Church councils, the words and the decrees of men, have been secondary; His word has been primary. When He came He came not building altars and churches, but "He came preaching". By His word the Church is renewed and corrected. His word is the word of Life.

It is fitting that during Lent we should focus our attention on the teaching of our Lord. Our Lenten sermons are based upon the general theme—"And Jesus Said". The sermon this Sunday, "And Jesus Said—The Soul Has Priority". Our Worship Service is at eleven o'clock. Pre-school children are cared for in the Church Nursery during the Service.

Sunday School, 10:00, The International Lesson Series asks the question, "No Salvation Outside the Church?" This should be a profitable discussion. We have four adult classes, three of which use the International Lessons. Other classes are graded by age and interest, beginning at the age of three years.

New members will be received into the Church on Palm Sunday, April 6th. Those uniting on confession of faith are urged to contact the minister. The training class for boys and girls begins this week (March 7th) and will continue each week on Friday afternoons and by special arrangement.

Fun Night Features Faculty Versus Parents

Mothers defeated teachers, and fathers trimmed the faculty Friday night at Lehman-Jackson High School when four hard-fought basketball games were staged for annual Fun-Night.

Mothers, wearing plaid shirts and blue jeans in a variety of sizes and models, licked lady teachers arrayed in shorts and white shirts, by a score of 17-7.

Fathers, some of them in their wife's garments, and most of them with skidded chests, nosed out the faculty by a tight score of 30-23. Toward the end they stopped the huge crowd cheered.

Mothers included Mrs. Lester Kern, Mrs. Lewis Ide, Mrs. Edwin Kern, Mrs. Albert Ide, Mrs. Barbara Cooney, Mrs. Eric Kowalek, Mrs. John Perry, Mrs. Michael Winnicki, and Mrs. Pauline Slocum.

Teacher adversaries were Mrs. Jack Porter, Mrs. Edwin Stolarick, Mrs. Anthony Marchakitus, Marjorie Downing, Anna Havrilla, Jule Bertley, Mrs. Arlene Kunkle, Mrs. Elda Coolbaugh, and Hannah Culp.

Fathers were Francis Stolarick, Edward Stolarick, Bob Disque, Joe Niezgod, Bruce Varner, Jack Porter, Gilbert Tough, Garwin Tough, John Roberts, Arthur Nuss, and Dick Mekeel.

Two Members Of Band Represent Township

Two members of Dallas Township Senior Band have been selected as members of Northeastern Pennsylvania District Band according to word received last week by Reese E. Pelton, supervisor of music. The instrumentalists are Marilyn Mosier and Roy Tryon, both members of the clarinet section. They will play under the direction of the Pennsylvania State College Blue Band director, James W. Dunlop, at Shickshinny in early April.

Miss Mosier and Robert Stair of the trombone section represent Dallas Township in individual competition sponsored by the Forensic and Music League of Pennsylvania this week. Marilyn will play "Danse Negre" by Scott and Bob will play "Concerto No. 2 in A Major" by Reiche. Accompanist for both soloists will be Regina Klein.

John G. Hadsel Passes Away

Buried In Family Plot In Beaumont

John Gordon Hadsel, Franklin street, was buried in Beaumont Cemetery on Wednesday, following services conducted by Rev. James Payne at the Nulton Funeral Home. Mr. Hadsel, 72, died in General Hospital Saturday at 6:20 p.m., five minutes after the attending physician had examined him and noted on his chart that his lungs were clearing.

Suffering from a streptococcal throat, virus pneumonia, a damaged heart, and arthritis, Mr. Hadsel was taken to the hospital on Tuesday, after having been taken ill five days previously. Up until his sudden death he had been improving.

As late as three weeks ago he had been doing minor jobs of interior finishing on the house he had constructed three years ago, and had been able to oversee the laying of a living room floor with yellow pine lumber which, stored in the basement, he feared would warp unless laid promptly. It was his daughter, Martna, suburban correspondent for the record, and his son-in-law, Herbert Updyke, who insured the job.

Mr. Hadsel had not been expected to live after returning from Honolulu, where he spent a year just before and after the close of World War II, and where he contracted arthritis.

Always a construction man, during the early years of the war he worked in Philadelphia in the Navy Yard as ship's joiner, constructing PT boats, repairing vessels and securing cargo. This was the type of work he did at Pearl Harbor.

Earlier in his career he had worked all over the country on various jobs. He was superintendent of men with D'Aurnand-Ashmead-Bickley, and part owner of Cable Excavating Co.—both of Philadelphia, and was with the Standard Equipment Company. He was supervisor of construction at Second National Bank, Wilkes-Barre, and in charge of riprapping the dike along River Common.

After moving to Idetown from Philadelphia nineteen years ago he worked as a private contractor until the onset of World War II. He was somewhat depressed the past year because of the death of close friends in the neighborhood on Franklin street, but continued with his project of building a home, and took great pride in turning out a workmanlike job.

During his Sunday afternoon walks he made scores of friends. He enjoyed gardening, planting little rock flowers in his new stone terrace, and snaring the flowers with his neighbors.

He was a member of Dallas Methodist Church.

Mr. Hadsel was born in West Wyoming, son of James and Lydia Parrish Hadsel, a sixth generation descendant of the Hadsel family in Wyoming Valley.

His mother died when he was eight years old, and he was placed for rearing with the John Ferguson family, who lived on a small farm in Dallas. He attended Dallas Borough school.

He and his wife, the former Genevieve Knapp, celebrated their forty-fourth wedding anniversary last Christmas Eve.

He is survived by his widow; his daughter Martha, at home; another daughter, Mrs. Herbert Updyke, Trucksville; two brothers, Emory, Idetown, and A. D. Hadsel, California; two sisters, Mrs. Lydia Blaise and Mrs. Emma Ferrell, California; and three grandchildren. Nephews acted as pallbearers.

Watch For Abandoned Books, Asks Librarian

Miriam Lathrop, Librarian, asks that users of the Back Mountain Memorial Library make it their responsibility to return any book which seems to have been abandoned.

Three volumes have been recently returned through the post-office, having come to Joseph Polacky, Postmaster, by indirection and without postage. One of them, the Audubon Bird Book, in high demand, has been missing for three months. Another, on the care of guns, for an equal length of time.

The librarian asks that books taken out on one card not be lent to another reader without official clearance through the library desk.

Lake Scouts Receive Awards At Review

Richard Sorchik, David Westfield were advanced to first class scouts; William Williams and Allen Sorchik were given second class scout pins at a Board of Review meeting last Wednesday evening at Lake Township School.

The scouts were instructed by David Davis, scoutmaster, and Tug Wyant, scout committeeman. The Board of Review was composed of George Taylor, Raymond Garinger, Fred Swanson and Alan G. Kistler. Scout Executive Hall of Wilkes-Barre District was present.

Library Shows Display Of Antique Calendars

Back Mountain Memorial Library has on display a series of calendars arranged by Miriam Lathrop, librarian, following the recent George Washington exhibit and antique valentines shown earlier in February.

Some very unusual calendars are in the collection, some of them old enough to show doll-like children with tiny strapped slippers. One calendar follows a family of skeletons through twelve leaves, with Papa Skeleton and Mamma Skeleton inspecting Baby Skeleton's first tooth, and ending up with Grandpa Skeleton with his feet immersed in a tub of mustard water.

Auxiliary Dinner

The annual banquet of the Henry M. Laing Fire Company Auxiliary will be held at the American Legion Home on Huntsville road Tuesday, March 11 at 6:30 p.m. For reservations call Dallas 738-R-3 no later than today, Friday.
