Mrs. R. S. Crosby Guest At Birthday Luncheon

Mrs. Mary Fasset Crosby, celebrating her seventy-ninth birthday anniversary Wednesday, planned to observe the day quietly at her home in Goss Manor with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Fasset Crosby. But that wasn't in the cards.

Under the pretext that she and her daughter-in-law would make a trip to Wilkes-Barre, she was persuaded to get ready while the younger Mrs. Crosby did some last minute shopping in Dallas.

Hurriedly Dorothy drove to Noxen where she picked up Mrs. E. Y. B. Engleman and Mrs. Gertrude Thomas, and stopped off in Dallas to pick up Mrs. W. B. Risley, for many years old friends, and neighbors of Mrs. Crosby. They were dropped off at Bowman's where they prepared a table for a birthday luncheon.

Then Dorothy drove to Goss Manor, picked up Mrs. Crosby and because of the lateness of the hour convinced her that they had better stop at Bowman's for lunch before going to town.

They were hardly in the restaurant before Mrs. Crosby observed, "why there's Aunt Gertrude—and Mrs. Engleman—and Mrs. Risley, too." Greeting them she asked, "what are you celebrating?" And the answer, of course, was "your birthday". The four thoroughly enjoyed the luncheon and a full afternoon of reminiscing about old friends and neighbors.

Born in Forkston, Wyoming County the daughter of the late Wallace and Mary Fasset, pioneer settlers, Mrs. Crosby was for a number of years after her graduation from Bloomsburg Normal School, a teacher in Wyoming County Schools.
