

Mrs. M. L. Todd Passes Away

Goes From Charleston To Last Resting Place

Mrs. Martillus L. Todd, 84, Charleston, South Carolina, widow of Major M. L. Todd, and mother Mrs. T. M. B. Hicks, Dallas, passed away early Monday morning after an illness of two months. She was buried at Fentonville, N. Y. Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, following services held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Adams.

Her surviving children are Colonel M. H. Todd, chief surgeon of Coral Gables Veterans Hospital, Florida; Howard Davis Todd, manager of Sears Roebuck & Co., Charleston; Mrs. T. M. B. Hicks, Dallas; and Mrs. Harry Adams, Frewsburg, N. Y. Major Todd died on Memorial Day, 1948. A general practitioner in Baltimore, Md., he had been drawn into service as a reserve officer at the entrance of the United States into World War I. He instructed at Camp Greenleaf in sanitation, served overseas in France in the Meuse-Argonne, was later stationed at various posts including Fort Kamehameha in Hawaii.

A grandson, Major Thomas M. B. Hicks 3rd, has recently returned from a five-year tour of duty in Tokyo. Another grandson, Warren Hicks, a former editor of the Dallas Post, is located at Lake Park, N. J. A grand-daughter, Mrs. Mart Harding, the former Barbara Hicks, lives at Herndon, Virginia. Her husband with rank of Major is a statistical expert at the Pentagon. A second grand-daughter, Mrs. Charles Scoggins, the former Persis Hicks, resides at College Park, Maryland. Her husband, also at the Pentagon, served in the Navy during World War II with rank of Lieutenant.

Mrs. Todd had nine grandchildren, nineteen great-grandchildren, seventeen of whom are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. B. Hicks, Pioneer Avenue, Dallas.

Mrs. Todd was buried beside her husband in a cemetery at the foot of the hill where they first met, when he, as eldest son of the new minister in Frewsburg, first moved to that area. Her forebears, the Davises and Whites, were pioneer settlers in that section of western New York State near Chautauque Lake.

TEAMWORK NEVER FAILS

It's poor business to try to build a wall between labor and capital. Both should feel they are a team—and teamwork never fails.
