Little Change In Fish Rules

The Pennsylvania Fish Commission has announced the rules, regulations, size, season and possession limits established for the 1953 fishing season.

Except for the following changes, the same rules and regulations will prevail upon the inland waters, Delaware River, Lake Erie and Pymatuning Lake, subject of course to any amendments which may be enacted and become effective by the presently convened 1953 Legislature.

The season for lake trout has been changed and effective this year the season will open on April 15 instead of July 1 and extend to and including November 30 instead of September 29 as heretofore.

All seasons and limits have been removed from crappie or calico bass.

By mutual agreement between the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and the Ohio Division of Wildlife an extra month of fishing for walleyes is provided. This year the walleye season on Pymatuning will open on May 30 instead of July 1. Effective the same date, May 30, creel limits will be removed from bluegills and other sunfishes, rock bass, yellow perch, bullheads and catfish, white bass, suckers and carp. There are no changes in the regulations governing largemouth and smallmouth bass or muskellunge. The season on these game fish is not affected and will still open July 1. The Commission stressed the information that these changes on Pymatuning Lake do not apply to any other Pennsylvania waters.
