Mrs. Kester Tells What It's Like
To Find Old Picture In The Paper

When the telephone rang Friday afternoon a voice said: "This is Maude Sutliff. I just saw your picture in the paper."

"No," I replied, "I'm sure you are mistaken because I have had no occasion to put my picture in the paper."

She felt quite sure that she was right, and finally told me about the old picture in The Dallas Post.

When Mr. Kester came home I hurried him down to Gregory's Store for our copy. In the meantime I got busy sorting through my "Sentimental Chest" where I keep pictures, clippings and mementos of other days. By the time he came back I had found a picture to match the one in The Post.

It was a real thrill. Then I studied, pondered and tried to remember the names. I recalled the sweet, youthful faces, but just couldn't recall their names.

By that time the phone was ringing constantly with each caller remembering this one and that one. We helped each other finding out "Who Was Who."

Finally I went to see Maude Turpin Warhola to help me verify the names so that I could feel quite sure that I was right. Many I have never seen since the last day of school. Others I have met in the crowds on busy streets or at gatherings and they have had fun making me guess who they were.

Forty years are history but fond memories linger and the picture in The Dallas Post renewed those memories and bonds of friendship. It really helped people to forget tragedies and the turmoil of the modern day. People relaxed and called me as well as their former classmates to recall incidents of a former time.

I remembered when I first came to Dallas in 1909 and my first trip to Kunkle to sign my contract at Del Honeywell's home, now Shrine View. Then the search to find a home for the first school term with Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Fisher.

I taught in the old building in the field. The attendance was so large that a new school had to be built (now Kunkle Community Hall). We could not get into the new building for the opening of school so the new teacher, Frank Duffy, and I taught in the same room. He would have a class then I would have one. Finally, during the middle of the term, we moved to the new building where we had a heating plant instead of a stove.

My next move was to the Goss Building (where the picture was taken). Here again we had stoves in each room and carried drinking water from the well at the home of William and Mary Gross. The fires were allowed to go out every night and we returned to school early enough each morning to start a new fire.

We had no fire escapes but the downstairs rooms had plenty of windows and easy entrance through big doors at the front. We had no Parent-Teacher Associations, but the parents were interested. They would invite me to their homes to stay all night. They attended entertainments and teachers and parents tried to meet each other and know each other better.

We had no snowplows. The roads were filled from fence to fence with drifted snow—enormous high drifts. Horses and sleds went around through the fields and men, not snowplows, shoveled the drifts.

In the spring the dirt roads had deep sink holes so transportation and travel by foot was slow, and many fingers and toes had to be thawed out in front of the pot-bellied stove before we began school. Those were the days of bob sleds, not warm heated busses.

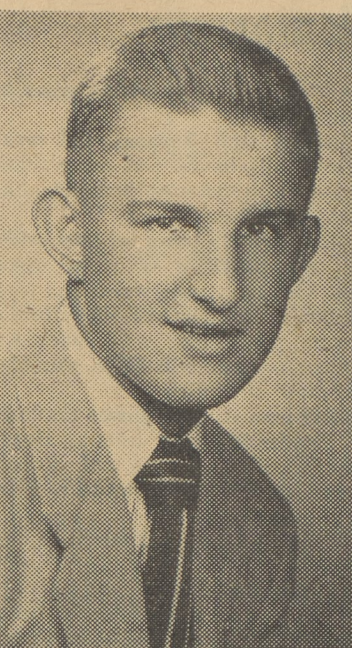

Dallas Township was just then beginning to consolidate its schools. Kunkle still had a school; all other pupils came to the Goss School. Many had long walks from East and West Dallas and Demunds Road. There were kid wagons but many did not live along the route.

I recall many humorous incidents involving the boys and girls I knew with my own regular schools and my years of substitute teaching in Northmoreland, Franklin, Jackson, Dallas and Kingston Townships and in Dallas, Plymouth and West Wyoming Boroughs.

I might be classed as one of the veterans of the Back Mountain area along with the circuit riders of the early churches, but those school days—"Good old golden rule days"—were a wonderful experience. I might be pictured as "Little Old Lady Crossing the Street" only my grey hairs are few and there are still four I can point to as my teachers: Mr. and Mrs. Job Hadsell, Beaumont, (Mrs. Hadsell was my first teacher; Mr. Hadsell, my second); Mr. John S. DeCraw of Thurston, and my last teacher, Grace Love LaFrance of Meshoppen who taught the little one room school at South Eaton, Wyoming County.

The state of Kansas is one of America's thrifty and greatest producing states. It leads all others in the production of wheat, and produces many other farm products. It also ranks very high in mineral production, among its production being large quantities of oil, zinc, coal, natural gas and cement.

Senior Of The Month

LEONARD KOZICK

Leonard Kozick, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kozick, was a guest at Thursday evening's dinner meeting at Irem Country Club, honored by Dallas Rotary as senior of the month.

Kozick has been a student at Dallas-Franklin for eleven years. He is prominent in extra-curricular activities, with four years of basketball and baseball to his credit. Co-captain of his team, he is high-scoring for this season in Back Mountain basketball league. He is secretary of the Hi-Y Club, and Lieutenant Governor of District 11, Key Clubs. He is finishing the Academic course, and expects to go to college after graduation.

Kozick was elected by Dallas-Franklin Township student body when Dallas Rotary announced that a custom inaugurated last year would be continued this year, with a senior boy from each of the four major high schools of the area selected by popular vote.

The program this year will take into consideration only one boy from each school, as against two last year, selection starting in January instead of in September.

Seniors of the month for last year were: Lance Walker and James Broomfield, Dallas-Franklin; Glen Carey and William Oney, Westmoreland; William Rinkin and Edward Havrilla, Lehman-Jackson; Clarence Swire and James Patton, Lake-Noxen.

Beaumont

Beaumont was able to retain top honors in the Susquehanna-Wyoming League by taking Tunkhannock "B" Team 58-29. This week's schedule includes a Tuesday game at Meshoppen and Friday's game at Falls-Overfield.

Mrs. Frank Marhefka of Wyoming County Extension Services was leader of the Women's Homemaking class Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hilbert.

The Missionary Society of the Union Church presented the Cragg Herdman family with a table lamp when they had a "housewarming" last Thursday night in Herdman's newly-built home.

The entire community extends its sympathy to Mrs. Wendell Carpenter and daughter Jane at the untimely death of Mr. Wendell Carpenter. Mrs. Carpenter was formerly Virginia Zacharais, daughter of Mrs. Harry Zacharais.

The Ladies' Aid of the Union Church met to quilt at the home of Mrs. Charles Goodwin this week. The school contributed $34.15 to the "March of Dimes." Miss Florence Frear was the chairlady.

Melvin Crispell, Harry Derhammer, and Cloyd Myers have reported to duty for Uncle Sam who has stationed them in a Maryland camp.

The Lend-A-Hand Club will meet Thursday, February 12, at the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Director Of Comedy
Arrives In Noxen

Val Henszey, Philadelphia, met with W. S. Bender, Earl Crispell, C. A. Shook, and Fred Shook of Bowman's Creek Lions Club last week to discuss plans for production of "Flying High", the benefit performance proposed to finance 1952 Christmas lights and decorations for Noxen. The three-act comedy will be given by local talent, directed by Miss Henszey, at Noxen Theatre.

Miss Henszey, a graduate of University of Miami and University of Pennsylvania, has done Little Theatre work, and has had special training in this production.

The action takes place in the lobby of a small hotel owned by the town constable. Names of cast and characters will be published as soon as try-outs are over. The director expresses herself as pleased with response in Noxen, and enthusiasm of Bowman's Creek Lions.

Back Mountain Asked To Support New Club

"Talk about grandstand managers" says the New York Times, "the Wilkes-Barre Club of the Eastern Baseball League next season will have 10,000 owners."

Then the Times continues in an article that gives Wyoming Valley much favorable publicity. "A year ago Wilkes-Barre gave baseball back to the Indians—the Cleveland Indians that is—and said there was no use trying to operate a club unless fans could be persuaded to come to the games."

"Now the fans have organized a booster club of 'owners' in which financial support is derived through 10,000 membership subscriptions at $1. each."

On the sixty-man Board of Directors is Robert Maturi, Sutton Road, Trucksville, representing the Back Mountain region. Mr. Maturi hopes to dispose of 1,000 admission tickets in the Back Mountain area.

Dallas Kiwanis Club has subscribed for 150 and Dallas Rotary Club has taken 125. Mr. Maturi urges all other Back Mountain civic and service clubs to follow suite and subscribe to other blocks of tickets. His telephone number is 4-1873. The tickets are good for admission on any night of the season except opening night.

C. S. Hemenway
Heads Dairymen

C. S. Hemenway, manager of Hillside Farms, Trucksville, was elected president of the Northeast Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Associations at Montrose.

The group met Friday to review the progress of dairy herd testing in this part of the State. Seventy-three directors from ten Northeastern counties were assembled to study ways of improving the dairy testing work. The group elected the following officers: President, C. S. Hemenway, Luzerne county; Vice President, Ivan Kinnan, Tioga county; Secretary-Treasurer, Reta Phelps, Susquehanna county; Directors, Claude Gorham, Bradford county; Clarence Hack, Columbia county; Frank Bezek, Wayne county.

Directors attending from Luzerne county were C. S. Hemenway, Mrs. Goldie Stradus, Shickshinny; Thomas Herman, Shickshinny, and William Yaple, Jr., Stillwater.

Burial Services For Mrs. Weaver Friday

Mrs. Alida May Keating Weaver, 63, who died early Tuesday morning after a lingering illness at the home of her brother, Roy Rogers, will be buried in Idetown cemetery this afternoon, following services from the home on Lehman-Outlet Road at 1:30, and church services at Outlet Methodist Church at 2. Rev. Ruth L. Underwood will be assisted by Rev. Frank K. Abbott.

Mrs. Weaver was employed for five years as a thread-drawer at Natona Mills. Her husband Ralph, who survives, is a carpenter. Mrs. Weaver was a member of Alderson Methodist Church.

She was born in Lehman of pioneer stock, daughter of William S. and Phoebe Rogers, and resided there until marriage, when she moved to Harveys Lake.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two brothers, Roy, Outlet, and Herbert Rogers, Vernon.

Arrangements are by Stephen
