Martin Snyders Have Lucky Break As Plane Crashes In Landing

Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Snyder, former Noxen residents, now of South Bend, Ind., are spending two weeks with Mr. Snyder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin W. Snyder, at Noxen.

The Snyders are on a forced vacation as a result of a plane crash in which Martin broke a leg and lost some front teeth, and his wife suffered minor knee injuries.

Piloting his own plane, Martin was caught in a hall storm above the clouds and, after vainly attempting for two hours to reach an airport, was forced to land in a vacant field. The plane was completely demolished.

Asked if he'd ever fly again, he replied with a quick "You bet. But never again without first buckling my safety belt. We wouldn't have been hurt at all if we hadn't been thrown from our seats!"

The Snyders have been at South Bend for the past four years where Martin is employed by the Bendix Corporation.

Kiwanis Women Hear Columnist

Cynthia Cabot Speaks On European Fashions

Many women of the Back Mountain area and surrounding communities gathered Wednesday afternoon at Irem Temple Country Club to hear Cynthia Cabot, Philadelphia fashion expert and columnist, address the Second Annual luncheon of Wyoming Valley Kiwanis Women's Clubs.

Miss Cabot, spoke chiefly on the European fashion centers. She admired to a great degree the creations of Italian and French designers, stating that the Italians contributed much artistry and color, with the French excelling in design.

Fashions start at the top and gradually reach the lower brackets. Americans, she remarked, are fortunate in their ready to wear industry, which enables all classes to dress well within their income range. In contrast, there are only the very rich and very poor classes in France and the latter must either make poor garments, or hire some seamstress to fashion clothing for them.

It was also astounding to hear that although the American dollar is eagerly sought after to help French economy, no imports from our factories are allowed there.

Procedures of fashion showings were interpreted by the speaker. Models usually ascend a large staircase and whisk rapidly past spectators so that no creations can be copied before the new fashions are announced. American girls are much preferred as models, their slim, tall figures displaying the latest fashions to much greater advantage than the tiny waists and wide hips of the French girls.

Welcome was given by Mrs. Donald Harris, president of Dallas Kiwanis Women's Club, which acted as host. She introduced Mrs. Mitchell Jenkins, program chairman who presented the speaker. Also introduced were presidents of Wilkes-Barre, Kingston, Forty Fort and Nanticoke Clubs.

Tables were most attractive with baskets of spring flowers and gold and white dolls.

Attending from the Back Mountain area were: Mesdames Robert Griffiths, John Henninger, George Montgomery, Fredric W. Anderson, Alva Eggleston, Kenneth Rice, Robert Dolbear, Ralph Dixon, Charles Herman, Jack Barnes, Robert Maturi, Thomas Black, Sam Thompson, J. S. Wilson, C. A. Miller, Charles W. Lee, Roscoe Smith, Karl Loucks, Delbert McGuire, Albert T. Glahn, Roger Owen, Franklin Gager, Robert Reariok, Harold Flack, Frank Werner, Mary Wright, William Wright, Paul Kautz, Clyde Cooper, W. W. Thomas, William Guyette, Mitchell Jenkins, David Joseph, O. L. Travis, Donald Harris, Sherman Harter, R. E. Neal, Roy Troxell, Harry Swepton, Jr., Charles Flack, Misses Alice Boyle and Sally Strayce.
