Back Mountain Man's Paintings Win Awards At National Festival

Wesley A. Steelman, Lehigh Street, Trucksville, was among 105 amateur artists selected as award winners in the National Amateur Art Festival held recently in the 69th Regiment Armory in New York City.

The award winning paintings, one a water color and the other an oil, are reproduced here.

The Festival was jointly sponsored by the Amateur Artists Association of America and American Art Magazine.

Mr. Steelman, who is a salesman for Milprint, Inc., received Certificates of Award for both of his pictures.

More than 1,000 paintings, prints and drawings submitted by amateur artists from every State in the Union were on exhibition during the Festival. Each of the award winners received individual criticism of his prize winning entries from a jury composed of noted artists. Gold, silver and bronze medals as well as certificates of merit went to the winners. All prize-winning entries will go on a nation-wide tour of exhibitions in schools and libraries.

Mr. Steelman has been painting since 1949. "I always wanted to paint," he stated, "so when the family gave me a box of oils on my birthday in March of that year, I started in."

Among his first efforts were four murals on the walls of his home on James Street, Kingston. They depicted the four seasons in a woodland theme.

About the same year his wife started to paint, taking lessons from Mrs. Julia Ashley.

Mr. Steelman entered his first painting in an exhibition last year in the Art News Show in New York City.

Lassie and Freddy At Loyalville Farm

Kenneth Kocher reports that the Holstein calf, Lassie, which he purchased at the Library Auction, is a beauty and is enjoying all the comforts of his farm at Loyalville where she is on a six-weeks Purina Feeding program supplied by James Huston Feed Service of Fernbrook. The calf, given to the Auction by Alfred Bronson's Hill Top Farm, was one of two animals which he purchased at the Auction. The other, a ram, named Freddy, given by Henry Pool, is a companion of Lassie at Loyalville.

"This is the first livestock we've put on the farm," says Mrs. Kocher, "and we're going to keep them both. We're delighted with Lassie."

Postoffice Gets New Equipment

tures of the new screen line will be the drop letter slot cases. The slots are of brass trim construction and will be for air mail, out-of-town mail, local mail, parcels and newspapers. Postmaster Joseph Polacky has emphasized that if patrons use the drop letter slots properly it will greatly facilitate the dispatch of mail.

Schedule Of Mails

In this connection he said, many patrons are not acquainted with the schedule of mails. On weekdays, the first mail arrives from Wilkes-Barre at 7:30 A.M. The first mail dispatched goes out to Wilkes-Barre at 11 A.M. The next arriving mail is from Wilkes-Barre at 3:30 P.M., and the final mail dispatched to Wilkes-Barre leaves the office at 5 P.M. All outgoing mail should be in the office a half hour before it is dispatched in order to give employees sufficient time to prepare it. The truck which brings the mail from Wilkes-Barre proceeds from Dallas to Noxen which is the end of the route, and all mail for that area should be in the office a half hour before the times listed above for the arrival of mail from Wilkes-Barre. No mail is received at the Dallas office on Sundays, but mail is dispatched to Wilkes-Barre at 4 P.M.

Other Equipment

Mr. Polacky said rural carriers will be delighted with the three new carrier cases containing 208 separations each, in comparison with the old cases which contained 100 separations each. Each separation takes care of the mail of two families. Heretofore carriers have had to use pasteboard boxes and makeshift material available to help them sort the mail. The old carrier cases will now be shipped to some smaller postoffice.

Mr. Polacky said that mail delivery on rural routes could still be greatly facilitated, especially at Christmas, and during periods when substitute carriers and green help are being employed, if rural box holders would see to it that their names are painted on their boxes. "Often," he said, "unfamiliar carriers are unable to leave mail in unmarked boxes or are delayed with the distribution of their other mail by trying to find the proper boxes."

Probably of most interest to patrons who will benefit by street delivery of mail are two big city carrier cases containing 260 separations each. Mr. Polacky stated that he has notified the Assistant Postmaster General in charge of Postoffice Quarters of the arrival of this equipment. He expects to receive shortly from the Civil Service Department the list of men eligible for the two carrier jobs. Appointments will then be made and carrier service, he believes, will start within a month.

After their appointment, there will be only a limited number of patrons served at the general delivery window at the Postoffice. Mr. Polacky urged all street delivery patrons to notify their correspondents of their correct street and house number as these will have to appear on all mail addressed to them. At the same time he urged all former patrons on Rural Route 4 which was discontinued months ago, to advise their correspondents of their proper Rural Route number. "All of these may appear to be small matters," he said, "but their total makes considerable difference in the quick dispatch of the mails."

To top off the list of new equipment that will promote greater efficiency and create a more modern appearance at the office are a new dumping and stamping table for the preparation of Parcel Post; four new attractive bulletin boards for the lobby and two new lobby desks.

"It looks at last," said a patron who watched postal employees sweat as they unloaded the big van, "as though the Postoffice Department has recognized that this is a great and growing community and deserves the best in equipment and housing for the efficient dispatch of the mails."
