THE DALLAS POST FROM. PILLAR TO POST VOL. 63, No. 33

By MRS. T. M. B. HICKS

Hostess gifts vary, according to the guest, the occasion, and the probable length of tenancy of the guest room. They may range from the definitely frivolous to the intensely practical, taking in everything along the way from bacon rinds for appetizers, to a donation for the linen closet, or a basket of peaches, and ten pounds of sugar.

We've had everything, from waist widening dark chocolates to a set of ~ yellow guest towels and a pair of percale sheets. We've welcomed with outstretched arms the sack of sugar and other timely additions to Mother Hubbard's cupboard. And we'd thought nobody could surprise us.

But we hadn't expected a praying mantis.

When a small boy, affection in his eye, parts with his pet bug, more than a normal amount of response is indicated, but courtesy demands that it be a coo of rapture instead of a shriek of dismay.

Well indoctrinated after years of harboring small boys, we are receptive to pets. Turtles we like. They take their own baths, they do not bark, they do not produce young in the middle of the guest room bed. Snakes, we can take or leave, but prefer to leave. Their sinuous motions leave us slightly chilled, but given a word of warning we can pump up the expected enthusiasm.

The small boy entered the kitchen, sized up the molasses cookies baking in the oven, wriggled a nose inquiringly toward the pumpkin pies ranged on the cooling rack, touched the icing on a chocolate cake with a delicately experimen-tal finger, and made the supreme sacrifice.

Not on account of our looks or our contours, we are sure, but solely on the grounds that we can make with the hot groceries, have a light touch with pie crust and biscuit dough, and can turn out fried chicken such as is seldom Deborah Jane Kostich, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kern, Harveys Lake, arrived at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital Monday morning at 10:31 (EST).

Her birth was Wyoming Valley's nearest to the new national population figure of 160,000,000 which was reached at 10:02:07 A.M.

The baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kostich of Harveys Lake. Her mother is the former Joan Kern and her daddy is Seaman 3/C Michael Kostich, son of Michael and Molly Kostich.

The Associated Press in making a national check of newspapers to discover the baby born nearest to the time the population figure was arrived at, found that a baby was born in New York City 57 second after the new population figure was reached.

Dr. Robert Lambert, Mrs. Kostich's attending physician delivered Deborah Jane right on time and was almost as excited as her grand daddy who thinks he may make a baseball player out of her.

Andrew Sokol And Edward McDade Are Temporary Carriers

City delivery of mail will start in Dallas on Monday morning but there will be plenty of persons who will still have to pick up their mail at the postoffice because they have been too indifferent to number their homes or install mail boxes.

This is especially true on Parrish Heights, according to Postmaster Joseph Polacky, where householders have previously received their
