

Warren Taylor Dies Suddenly

Revered Teacher Buried Tuesday

Warren Swan Taylor, Trucksville, was buried at Fern Knoll Tuesday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. Arthur R. B. Mayer and Rev. Earl Douglas, a Princeton classmate of Professor Taylor, from the Elmer T. Williams Funeral Home. Rev. Douglass had performed the marriage ceremony for Professor Taylor and his wife, the former Guida Marrow, Trucksville.

Students who had passed through his hands during the past twenty-five years in Kingston Township were shocked to learn of his death Saturday afternoon. He was stricken with a sudden heart attack. He had been in failing health for some time, resigning from the faculty at Westmoreland last year. For many years he coached the baseball team.

Professor Taylor, instructor in Latin, deplored the modern tendency to eliminate classics from the high school curriculum, holding that Latin was the best foundation for study of the English language. He felt that too little time was spent on acquiring a real education, and too much on extra-curricular activities. Of an intelligent student he once said: "It is a pity that this boy will not apply himself. He could go far if he learned to learn." He was appalled at the modern student's ignorance of grammar and spelling.

Professor Taylor had been in the teaching field for thirty-five years, first at the Harrisburg Academy, where ill-health interrupted his career for a year; next at Columbus School for Boys, Cleveland School for Boys, the Marquand School, Wilmington Friends School, and at Oriskany, before coming to Trucksville.

He was educated at Mercersburg Academy, Columbia University, and Princeton. He took graduate work in education at Pennsylvania State College, and returned to Princeton to take further graduate work and manage the Bureau of Student Self-Help. He was listening to the Princeton-Yale football game over the radio when he died.

He was born at Shade Gap, his parents the late John and Amanda Swan Taylor.

Surviving are his widow, two brothers and two sisters: Cloyd, Mt. Union; John C. Westwood, N. J.; Mrs. A. L. Cargill, Pittsburgh; and Mary Taylor, Shade Gap.

Pallbearers were: Linden F. Kingsley, William R. Royer, Harold Shappelle, Sheldon Bennett, Thomas Carle, Jr., and James Hutchison.

Mrs. Catherine Stoeckel Enjoys Ninety-second Birthday Monday

Huntsville's oldest resident, Mrs. Catherine Stoeckel, held open house Monday afternoon and evening on her ninety-second birthday. Flowers sent by well-wishers decked the house, and those friends who could not come in person sent cards. Mrs. Stoeckel kept up her own home next door until moving in with her daughter - in - law, Mrs. Rose Stoeckel and her grand-daughter, Helen, a registered nurse, a few weeks ago. Her sight and hearing are not as keen as they were, which handicapped her in doing her housework and cooking. So, though regretting her own house, she gladly admits that she is more comfortable in her present quarters.

With radio not so interesting, now that she has to tune it to so loud a pitch, and newspapers barred because of her eyes, Mrs. Stoeckel takes her chief delight in visiting with callers. A resident of Huntsville for the past forty-seven years, she remembers it from the horse and buggy days when the roads were practically impassable five months out of the year, and Huntsville was a long day's drive uphill from Wilkes-Barre.

Until very recently, Mrs. Stoeckel took an active part in Huntsville Methodist Church affairs and its women's organizations, preparing for church suppers and other program features. Less active now, she still enjoys life and has a good appetite.

She has a grandson David Carpenter, and four sisters: Mrs. F. G. Hess, Miss Elizabeth Risewick, Mrs. Howard Schole, Nanticoke; and Mrs. Ida Gilchrist, New Jersey.

Mrs. Stoeckel was born in Bloomsburg, daughter of the late William and Rachel Risewick. The family moved to Nanticoke shortly afterwards, where Mr. Risewick operated a livery stable.

Mrs. Stoeckel's husband, Theodore W., died in 1932, five months before the couple would have celebrated their golden wedding. A daughter, Bess Carpenter, died in Kentucky several years ago, and a son Harry, a florist, died in 1944.

Harold Gebler has returned home from General Hospital.

Ellen Brown Dies Monday

Was Resident Of Area Forty Years

Mrs. Ellen Brown, Holcomb's Rd., Shavertown, was buried yesterday in Fern Knoll, following funeral services conducted by Rev. Robert D. Yost from the home.

Mrs. Brown died Monday night at 73. She had been in gradually failing health for several years, but seriously ill for only two weeks.

Before ill health forbade, she had been active in the women's organizations of Shavertown Methodist church, centering her life about church and home. She led a quiet and retiring life.

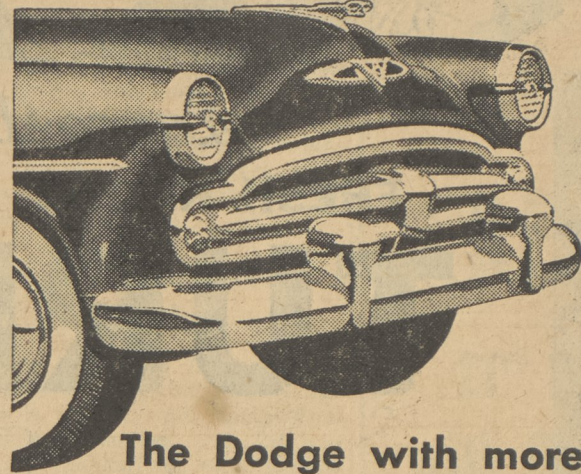

Born in Wales, daughter of the late Hugh and Margaret Jones, she came to the United States as a young woman in 1910. For two years she lived in Wilkes-Barre, for the past forty in Shavertown.

She leaves her husband, William; two sons, William Thomas Brown, Shavertown, and Robert Arthur, Wyoming; four grandchildren and one great-grandchild; and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, Saskatchewan, Canada.
