LAKE LOUISE GUERNSEY HERD NEAR TOP IN UNITED STATES

Lake Louise Farm's 177 Guernseys are rapidly becoming one of the nation's outstanding breeding herds under the direction of Raymond Goeringer its youthful owner.

This was proved last week when animals from the herd won three of six championships and many other top awards at Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

It is the only herd in the United States that has imported blood lines from the Isle of Guernsey since 1937, and it is probably the last that will be able to import them for many years to come since an outbreak of hoof and mouth disease there this year.

During the years Mr. Goeringer has been building up the herd to its present national standing he has travelled four times across the Atlantic and thousands of miles throughout the United States to select the animals that will give him a complete outcross.

His first after the war trip to the Isle of Guernsey with Tony Jardine of Doylestown, his Scotch adviser, was futile. The British government would not permit the export of its famous animals. But Ray was determined to acquire the needed blood for his herd. After his return to the United States, Parliament passed an act permitting him to import fifteen head. They were brought to quarantine at Clifton, N. J., by John Bessan, a Guernsey man, and held for thirty days until they could be brought to Lake Louise.

Over the years, Ray has purchased outstanding blood lines in Kentucky, Oregon, Washington, Indiana, New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Ohio, and has sold some of his young stock in Oregon, Washington, New York, Maryland and Brazil.

The herd is in charge of Stewart DeGraw who helped to show the prize-winning stock at the Farm Show last week.

Although Ray, who attended Mansfield State Teachers College as an academic student, has always been interested in cows—he has lived on the farm since 1928—it is only during the past five years that the herd has been built up to its present state of perfection. This year was the first that any of the herd were ever shown at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, but the ninety-one milking cows out of the 177 head herd have been proving all along that Lake Louise stands second to none in the country for production and for quality.

Art has two sons in the Army Air Force: Lt. James G. in Texas, named for his grandfather the late James Franklin, and William C. who is in training in Louisiana.

Fractures Hip, Result Of Very Small Fall

Mrs. Sarah Rogers, Huntsville, fell in her living room Sunday night and fractured her hip. Dr. Richard E. Crompton, summoned by her son Alfred, diagnosed the hip fracture, and called Kingston Township ambulance for transportation to Nesbitt Memorial Hospital at 8. Mrs. Rogers, elderly and somewhat unsteady on her feet because of a stroke several months ago, was sitting in her chair at the window when she rose and crossed the room, collapsing on the floor.

TV NEWS

by BILL GUYETTE

Red Skelton, already busy with his motion picture and video work, has signed a contract for a radio show which stands to add at least $1,500,000 (before taxes) to his bank account. The contract covers a 3-year agreement with the Ziv company for a daily half-hour "open-end" transcribed show to be sold regionally throughout the country. Ziv expects to have the red-headed comic sold on a minimum of 450 stations by March 1st.

Dorothy Lamour is reported about to produce a TV series entitled "One Night Stands." She'll star in the films, built around situations which occur to an entertainer on a cross-country tour ... Another new series in the making is a biographical series about leading bandleaders, inspired by the movie, "The Glenn Miller Story." First exhibit is reported to be Freddy Martin and his crew.

Bill Stern, the sportscaster, tells of a successful football coach's system for recruiting players. He traveled through the farm country asking directions of likely looking prospects. He ignored those who pointed with their fingers, and chose the giants who pointed the way with their plows!

That seems like good evidence for choosing an athlete ... and the best evidence for choosing a TV service organization is a reputation for reliability and for experience in all TV reception problems. We've got the experience with reception bugs in this area ... and we've won our spurs with dependable service. Call us when your set needs attention.
