Elizabeth Shaver
 Lies At Lehman

Death Releases Her
 Sunday Morning

Mrs. R. Bruce Shaver, 73, highly esteemed Idetown woman, was buried Wednesday afternoon in Lehman Cemetery. Rev. Frank Abbott and Rev. William Heaps conducted funeral services from the home in Idetown.
 Mrs. Shaver was released from suffering Sunday morning. She had been increasingly ill for eight months, successive surgery during the past twelve years, proving of no lasting value. It was Mrs. Shaver's heartfelt desire that she be allowed to live out her days at home, and not be sent to a hospital. Mrs. Dean Shaver, her son's wife, cared for her.
 She was the former Elizabeth Parrish, daughter of the late Victor and Ann Tannery Parrish of Beaumont. Mrs. Parrish died as a young woman. There were several children, some of whom did not survive infancy. Her father was a carpenter by trade.
 Mrs. Shaver, upon marriage to her husband, left Beaumont to make her home in Lehman, and shortly thereafter to Idetown, where the couple lived for the past forty years.
 Mrs. Shaver taught the primary class in Idetown Methodist Church Sunday School until two years ago. She was a member of the WSCS and Serving and Waiting Class, in which she served as treasurer. She belonged to Order of the Eastern Star, the WCTU, and was active in community affairs. Her delight, especially since illness narrowed her horizon, was the culture of African violets. Thirty of her prize plants were in bloom for her funeral.
 She is survived by her husband, a prominent well-driller of the area; a son, Dean, at home; one granddaughter; two sisters and a brother, Frank Parrish and Mrs. Lena Rabbert, Forty Fort; and Mrs. Edith Hobbs, Manchester, Conn.
 Pallbearers were Jesse Boice, Gilbert Husted, Howard Boice, Harold Cragle, Harold Donnelly and Howard Reilly.
 Arrangements by Alfred Bronson.

First Aid classes under instruction of Charles Davis, Wyoming Valley Red Cross, started Monday night in Dallas Borough Building, with thirty members of Dallas Community Ambulance Association in attendance. Mr. Davis laid a foundation for first aid by explaining basic principles, stressing the point that a first-aid's only function is to reassure the patient and give temporary relief before the doctor arrives. He emphasized the value of warmth in case of shock and spoke on the circulatory system, and control of bleeding in case of a severed artery.

"What Protestants Believe"

We Believe in
 GOD

God is the creative and sustaining Power who works in and through all existing life. God is a Person. His personality transcends our limited human personalities but we are made in His spiritual likeness. He knows each of us and we can have personal and conscious fellowship with Him. God is love. He loves every creature whom He has made and yearns for His salvation and perfection. Not only is His love self-giving, but He craves our love in response. There is no conflict between the justice of God and the mercy of God; both spring out of His infinite love for His children.
