O. L. Moore Joins Chase Bag Firm

Odus L. Moore, former production superintendent of Fernbrook Plant of Bloomsburg Mills, will leave shortly to assume a similar position with Chase Bag Company of Goshen, Indiana.

The 107-year-old firm is a leader in its field manufacturing all kinds of plastic, jute and cotton bags, and has plants from coast to coast.

Mr. Moore will report on July 12 to Philadelphia and will be assigned for a period of time at plants in New Orleans and Kansas City, Mo., before taking up his duties at Goshen, a town of 13,000 near Elkhart.

Mrs. Moore and the children, John and Kathleen, will spend the summer at Lake Chautauqua with her family, later going on to Goshen.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore came to Shavertown in 1951 and since that time have taken an active interest in community life. Mrs. Moore taught a Sunday School class at Shavertown Church while Mr. Moore was a member of the Methodist Men's Club, taught Sunday School and was chairman of the Boy Scout Committee.
