Urge Irvin LaBarr To Rebuild Diner

Irvin LaBarr, Mooretown, is undecided whether to rebuild his diner after the disastrous fire of last Wednesday morning, or go out of business. Public pressure is being applied by men who made the diner their headquarters while hunting or stopped by for breakfast on their way to early morning jobs. Game wardens and State Police urge Mr. LaBarr to rebuild, holding that few diners have the homelike atmosphere that their favorite meeting place did.

Mr. LaBarr says that he and his wife are in their early seventies, and it seems like a big undertaking to start out again, in spite of an assured and ready-made clientele. They agree that if Sweet Valley and Lehman volunteers had not arrived as speedily as they did, the adjoining home would have followed the store and diner and everything would have been a total loss. The LaBarrs wish to thank the firemen and the neighbors who congregated to assist, and to bring coffee and food for the firemen.

Book Club To Hear Easter Music

Mrs. Paul Goddard will present a program of Easter music at Wednesday afternoon's meeting of the Book Club in Back Mountain Memorial Library Annex. Mrs. George Courtright, hostess chairman, will be assisted by Mesdames Clyde Cooper, Byron Creasy, E. D. Crothamel, Dana Crump, Robert Currie, Stanley Davies, Stephen Davis, E. M. Deeter, Gerald Dettmore, Ralph Dixon, Boyd Dodson, P. P. Dohl, A. R. Dungey, Arthur Ellum, Raymond Waters, and Miss Frances Dorrance.

An Old Timer Visits Charley's

An old timer stopped in at Charley Gregory's Barber Shop to have his hair cut Tuesday afternoon just as the Post's photographer passed by. He was Paul Gordon of Easton, here for a few days to visit his Aunts Helen and Hazel Gordon of Hays Corners. Paul is the son of the late Cory Gordon who was associated with the Wilkes-Barre Traction Company throughout his lifetime. Paul's dad helped to construct the Harveys Lake line and lived long enough to see the trolleys come to the end of the line, for he also helped to remove the rails. Paul, his wife, the former Alice Lott, and his mother, live next door to his daughter, Mrs. G. R. Strahler. The grandchildren aged 4, 6 and 8, keep grandparents and great-grandma on their toes. Mr. Gordon is employed by Bethlehem Steel Company. For a time after leaving Dallas in 1930, he and Mrs. Gordon lived in White Haven. The dark handsome gentleman with the determined look is Sargo Toni who in July will complete ten years as an associate at Gregory's. Toni knows everybody and is liked by everybody. The photographer couldn't find Charley.

Biology Class Hears Doctors, Makes Tours

Westmoreland Biology Class 10B is touring the Kirby Health Center today, as part of the project of the instructor, Walter H. R. Mohr, who is arranging for outside specialized help in his courses.

In pursuance of this program, Dr. Joseph J. Kocyan, Wilkes-Barre, spoke to the class on the Endocrine system, explaining how ductless glands help the body to adjust to its environment.

Dr. J. Franklin Robinson was guest speaker at a discussion of children's behaviour, pointing out the importance of psychiatry in helping children to help themselves.

Dr. Richard Crompton spoke to the group on cancer, stressing the point that 90% of the alarming symptoms people develop are not cancer at all, but some other form of disease.

Two weeks ago, the class toured the Red Cross Blood Center and watched Mr. Mohr give a pint of blood.
