Camp Kresge, One of Finest Boys' Camps In State, Operated By YMCA

Camp Kresge on Beaver Lake will open its third season on June 26 for a full season of camping. The camp is built around Indian-Lore and it's new arrowhead is its identifying trade-mark. The first, of three 2 week periods, will run from June 26 to July 9; the second from July 10 to 23, and the third from July 24 to August 6. Applications are now being accepted at the Boys' Division of Central YMCA or at Back Mountain YMCA.

Camp Kresge is located near White Haven, in Dennison Township on a 1,200 acre tract named in honor of Sebastian S. Kresge who contributed the funds to make possible this service to the youth of Wyoming Valley. It is one of the finest camps in Pennsylvania. In the beautiful wooded tract are two lakes, covering some twenty acres, known over the years as Mount Olympus, Glenn Lake and Beaver Lake. A quarter of a mile up the side of Mount Yeager is the second lake, about 5 acres in size. Both lakes house a family of beavers. This second lake is known as Little Beaver Lake. The elevation at Beaver Lake is about 1,200 feet and the elevation atop Mt. Yeager is 1,800 feet.

The Camp is along the newly surrounded Mountain Top-White Haven highway, about 4 miles from White Haven. From the highway to the lake is a distance of over two miles. The first building to greet visitors is the Headquarters Building and Infirmary. On the lake front are a spacious dining hall with modern kitchen, and a lodge for general recreation purposes. These three main buildings are built of vertical logs, varnished in natural color. Above, on the mountain side, are the cabins, divided into three units. These cabins are solidly constructed and are carefully screened. Seven boys and an older counselor are housed in each cabin.

The camp is built on the age unit basis. Each unit is named after an Indian Village. The Algonquin Village consists of seven cabins: Ottawa, Sioux, Delaware, Shawnee, Susquehanna, Menoninee and Winnebago, and is for younger boys 8 to 10 years of age. They have a unit program graded to their particular age level. The Iroquois Village consists of five cabins: Penobscot, Mohawk, Oneida, Cayuga, Tuscarora, and is for intermediate boys, 11 to 13 years of age. Program is graded to their level of progress and includes such things as boating, canoeing, hiking, overnight camping and fishing.

The Sioux Village of two cabins, Mohican and Dakota, is for older boys, 14 years and up. This unit also has its own "cook house." Their program is designed especially to meet their special needs, and includes experiences such as outdoor cookery, hiking, sailing, outpost camping, fishing and counselor training. The unit may combine on some programs, or "go it alone" on projects for itself. Meals are served to all units in the main dining hall.

Supervising the program planning is the Boys' Work and Camping Committee under the chairmanship of Robert Burnside. Committee members are Lewis LeGrand, Mrs. Anna May Davis, Charles Donin, Carl Goeringer, Dr. Walter Kistler, Robert Mebane, Mrs. Harold Gruver, Reed Travis, James Evans and Mrs. Gordon Leidhecker.

Responsible for care of facilities and equipment is the Camp Kresge Committee under the chairmanship of Robert Jones. Included are C. E. Beerweiler, William F. Logan, William J. Ruff, W. Gordon Williams, Charles Hontz and Charles H. Miner. The camp will be under the actual directorship of Andrew M. Hume, Boys' Program Secretary at Central YMCA. He will be assisted by an experienced staff.
