Your Neighbor Cooks

By MRS. H. L. ECKMAN

Many people have the idea that baking with yeast is difficult. They say bread baking takes too much time. If you are one of these persons, you're in for a pleasant surprise. To acquaint you with bread making and to learn the feel of yeast dough start off with a packaged hot roll mix. Next time you'll probably feel more ambitious. That is the time to read some recipes and get the general procedure in mind. It won't take long to find a recipe inspiring enough to get you out into the kitchen. Before long the wonderful aroma of home baked bread will be a frequent occurrence in your home.

My favorite bread recipe is for Swedish Limpe. It's an old Swedish recipe that has been adapted for the modern American housewife. We like Limpe served warm with butter and a cup of good coffee.

Swedish Limpe

- Combine:
- 1 cup scalded milk
  - 1 cup dark brown sugar
  - 1 tablespoon salt
  - 3 tablespoons dark molasses
  - 2 tablespoons shortening
  - 1 tablespoon fennel or caraway seed
  - 1 tablespoon orange peel
- Cool to lukewarm.

- Add:
- 1 cake compressed yeast or 1 package dry granular yeast softened in
  - 1 cup lukewarm water.

- Blend in:
- 4-5 cups sifted white flour
  - 3 cups rye flour

Knead: dough on floured board. Fold toward you, push away with a rocking motion, using heels of palms. Turn dough slightly and repeat the folding-pushing process with rhythmic motion. To obtain a fine grain, knead about 7 minutes. Place dough in a greased bowl and cover.

Let rise: in a warm place (85 to 90 degrees) about 1 1/2 hours or until dough will retain the impression of finger.

Punch: dough down. Let rise in a warm place about 1 1/2 hours or more.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore floor length gown of white tulle made with tight bodice, boat neckline, short sleeves and full ruffled skirt with short train. Her fingertip veil of tulle fell from a Juliet cap edged with seed pearls and carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids.

Maid of honor and bridesmaids wore identical floor length gowns of orchid tulle trimmed with purple velvet, styled with strapless bodices, full skirt and stole. They wore matching caps edged with velvet and carried Colonial bouquets of mixed fall flowers. Mrs. Harron, mother of the bride, chose ballerina
