

Long Discusses New Grain Drill

Sweet Valley Dealer Likes Oliver's No. 64

A completely new grain drill to fit modern-day farming practices has been designed by the Oliver Corporation, according to Charles H. Long, Farm Equipment Dealer, at Sweet Valley.

This all-new drill, the Oliver Superior No. 64, holds almost twice as much grain and fertilizer as previous models—a bushel of grain and 80 pounds of fertilizer per lineal foot of hopper length. In the plain grain drill, a version of the combination fertilizer and grain type, hopper capacity is almost two bushels of grain per foot.

In addition, the hopper is exceptionally low to make loading easier—only 3½ feet in height at the filling point. Hopper height remains the same whether the farmer chooses the 20-inch, or the 15-inch wheels, both designed to accommodate low-cost, used tires.

A great money-saver and time-saver, Mr. Long points out, are the lifetime-seal disc bearings that never require lubrication. This not only eliminates daily greasing, but saves the cost of the lubricant as well.

Another unit that matches modern practices is the grass seeding attachment. Grass seed can be sown in bands, a method many authorities recommend to insure better stands, or it can be broadcast. The hopper is only 20 inches off the ground, and located at the rear where shallow placement of seed is assured.

Three famous Oliver Superior mechanisms are included in this new drill: an oil-bath variable speed transmission that provides 144 different grain seeding rates, the double-run force feed that handles almost any kind of seed of any size without waste or damage, and efficient star-finger fertilizer feeders that will distribute at 30 different rates.

The frame and hitch on the drill are also entirely new and made extra strong. To make hitching easier the drawbar can be provided with a self-locking hitch stand.

Oliver Superior No. 64 drills are built in several sizes and run widths, and a large assortment of special equipment is offered.

Drabick Writing Thesis On Rural Sociology

Lawrence Drabick, former instructor of Vocational Agriculture at Lehman-Jackson-Ross, was written up in a recent issue of the Lebanon Daily News for his services as Rural Sociology visitor connected with Pennsylvania State University, where Larry functions as graduate assistant.

Larry and his wife, the former Janice Ruggles of Lehman, together with their two little boys Mike and Mahlon, live on a farm near Pottery Mills, too far from the University for easy daily commuting, but delightful in other ways. Larry has now accumulated all his material and is busy writing the thesis necessary for attainment of a MS degree, expected in June after completion of 33 credits.

Janice, says Larry, is signed up for some college courses, now that both little boys are in school. Former friends from Lehman, among them Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dave, have visited the Drabicks on the farm where, to quote Larry, "we are trying to induce chickens to lay more eggs than they feel they should."

Drive Carefully On Hallowe'en

On Hallowe'en Eve, drivers and pedestrians both should be conscious of the probability of accidents on this "big night" for youngsters. The Institute For Safer Living warns drivers to be on the lookout for children darting across the street and parents who cannot accompany their young ones should dress them properly with some white showing so they can be visible to motorists.

On The Back Mt. Scene

Some News and Notes, and maybe some Jokes Brought To You By Back Mt. Lumber & Coal Co.

WRITTEN AND EDITED BY "BOB" BACHMAN

Our first column produced results . . . we got an answer about what to do with an old American Flag, Boy Scout Billy Hall, of Shavertown, who belongs to the Prince of Peace troop, called to give us directions. You place your old flag in a tin can, Billy says, and then burn it inside the can. When it's reduced to ashes the ashes should be scattered to the four winds. Billy, your $1.00 gift certificate is in the mail.

Here's an announcement that's important to all you folks. I don't care what church you belong to 'cause I'm sure, whichever one it is, there's always a need for more income. This is your chance to help your church. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, November 14, 15 and 16, we will have CHURCH NIGHTS in our Toy and Gift Departments. This is how it works: You come in any of these three nights, in either of our stores, and no matter whether you buy a Ginny doll for Susy, or a power drill for Pop, we will send a check for 10 PER CENT OF YOUR PURCHASES TO THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE. You don't have to pay for them gifts that night, just put 'em on Lay-Away and we will send the check to your church whenever you come in to pick up your items.

Arlene told us a story about a little fellow who came home from Sunday School and his mother asked him what he had learned. He said he learned a song about a Cross-eyed Bear whose name was Gladly. His mother expressed her doubts about this and next Sunday asked the teacher what the song was. His teacher said they had sung "Gladly The Cross I Bear."

Like good home-baked goodies? Then be sure and stop in at Back Mt. Lumber & Coal Co., on Friday, October 28, from 2 to 8 p.m. The ladies of the Shavertown Elementary PTA will conduct their bake sale here and will be happy to serve you.

When you kids get done soaping windows and other Hallowe'en devilry and begin to think about your Hallowe'en parties then we've got something you'll need . . . real nice costumes. These are not ordinary costumes but washable cloth that you'll enjoy playing in after Hallowe'en. We have them in sizes 2 to 12 from $3.98 up. Your Mom won't have to fret because these costumes are not subject to fire. You can have your choice of styles . . . Lone Ranger, Tonto, Annie Oakley, Range Rider, Nurse Uniform and the Mouse-keeper for boys and girls as featured on the Mickey Mouse TV Show.

A young mother came into our Shavertown store the other day with her small youngster. As she was standing near the counter one of the boys gave the child a lollipop, which we have here for all the kiddies. Her mother said, "What do you say?" and the child answered, "I want three more." Her mother was embarrassed, but shouldn't have been, we know it was the little brothers and sisters she had at home that prompted this answer. After all, why shouldn't the other children have a lollipop too?

Did you say you were planning to entertain friends this week? Well, if you want to see some really charming and unusual party accessories, come in and see some of the newest things "Winnie" brought back from her recent buying trip . . . some of them are mighty clever.

Send your little stories or news items into us for this column and, if we use them you'll receive a $1.00 Gift Certificate. Give it a try.
