

Firemen Hold Annual Dinner At Beaumont Inn

Nine Companies Represented By Seventy-seven Men

Annual dinner meeting of the Back Mountain Volunteer Firemen's Association was held Thursday evening at the Beaumont Inn, January 19th. Dick Williams, of Harveys Lake was in charge of arranging the dinner and entertainment.

Present were seventy-seven members and guests representing nine Back Mountain Volunteer Fire Companies. Shavertown, with seventeen members present won applause for the largest attendance.

Captain Williams, of the Wilkes-Barre Fire Department, congratulated the Association and member companies on their progress in training and equipment.

Tom Morgan, of Shavertown, spoke on the advantages and importance of using two-way radio in fire fighting and civilian defense.

Explorer Scouts Visit Avoca Control Tower

Explorer scouts visited the control tower at Avoca Airport Sunday afternoon. They saw small planes land without radio, by means of red and green light signals, and big ones forming a landing pattern by radio directive. The weather maps and sun-recorder interested the boys, also the back and forth plane chat between pilots in the air. John Savickas, Jr., whose father is employed in the control tower, was chairman of the day. Explorer Scouts in the group were John Kirk, Tom and Bill Farrell, Blair Haddle, Bobby Cross, Arthur Ellum, Les and James Barstow. Men who accompanied scouts were John Savickas, Sr., Fred Cockayne, Jr., and Les Barstow.

Harry Bagnall was elected acting chairman at a recent organization meeting. Committee members are Edward Ratcliffe, Fred Cockayne, Joe Kravits, Jack Rogers, Arthur Ellum, Les Barstow, Joseph Harris, Jack Stanley and Percy Love.

Farm Show Will Seek More Room

Many Were Unable To Exhibit This Year

Weather and hazardous road conditions that cut attendance at the 1956 Pennsylvania Farm Show served to emphasize the need for additions to physical facilities in the 14-acre building, Dr. William L. Henning, chairman of the Farm Show Commission, has declared. The last day's attendance was estimated at 60,000, making a total of 580,000 for the week compared with 675,000 last year and 540,000 two years ago when the week opened with a heavy snow.

"In effect, reduced attendance was a blessing in disguise for commercial exhibitors and visitors," Dr. Henning said. "Except for the big Wednesday, the visitors saw the show in comfort. The more than 300 commercial exhibitors, the folks who support the show, had a better opportunity to talk with prospective customers."

This means that exhibitors need more space for their displays, Dr. Henning explained, adding that more than 100 had to be turned away for lack of room this year.

"The Farm Show Commission is asking the General State Authority to allocate $2,871,000 for improve-

"This would provide a three-story building for more exhibit space, a new cafeteria and dormitories for farm youth exhibiting at the show, and for State Police assigned to the show. It also would replace worn-out heating, electric and water line systems, replace a temporary sheet steel building used for horses and beef cattle, and expand other livestock areas."
