

Burgess Of Dallas Finds His Job Entertaining And Also Irritating

Even though the job of Burgess of Dallas Borough pays no money, it is entertaining. Burgess H. A. Smith says he can always expect interesting telephone calls at all hours of the day or night—many of them anonymous.

The following true incident in the life of the Burgess is illuminating.

Place: home of the Burgess. Time: Sunday night 10:30, January 22.

Voice: "Is this the Burgess?"

Burgess: "Yes."

Voice: "I live on ... Street. My neighbor's cat is howling. Send up and get it!"

Burgess: "Sorry, I can't do that."

Voice: "Why not? You're the ..."

Burgess: "I demand you get this cat tonight."

Burgess: "Mister, we are not catching cats. Go back to bed!"

Voice: "What do I pay taxes for?"

Burgess: "Hang up and take an Aspirin."

Monday, January 23, same place, 4 P.M.

Voice: "The cats are still at it. Six of them. They yelled all night. I've had no sleep. Come up and get them or I'll call Joe MacVeigh."

Burgess: "Shoot them yourself, or have Joe do it."

Voice: "I can't shoot and what would I do with them? It's your job to kill them."

Burgess: "Sorry, mister, can't do it."

Voice: "I demand protection. I can't sleep. Come get these cats."

Burgess: "Oh, take a pill!"

Voice: "Look here, Burgess, there must be an ordinance that cats can't run at night."

Burgess: "No such ordinance."

Voice: "If you don't kill these cats, you're a bum Burgess. I won't vote for you again."

Burgess: "Please don't."

Voice: "Another thing, the man next door won't cut his grass. Can't you make him keep his yard clean and isn't there an ordinance against snakes. It's full of snakes up here in the summer. I want these snakes killed or I'll see a lawyer. It's your job."

Burgess (still under self control): "Yes, sir."

Voice: "I want these cats killed before dark so I can sleep tonight. Six of them outside now. Another thing. A skunk gets under my porch. Have him shot. It's your job, or I'll call Joe MacVeigh."

Burgess (has lost control): unprintable.

Karweta With Labor Bureau Becomes Wages And Hours Investigator

Frank A. Karweta, Druid Hills, for a number of years employed by the Veterans Administration, has been transferred to the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division, according to William Hargadine, Jr., Regional Director. Karweta will be an investigator.

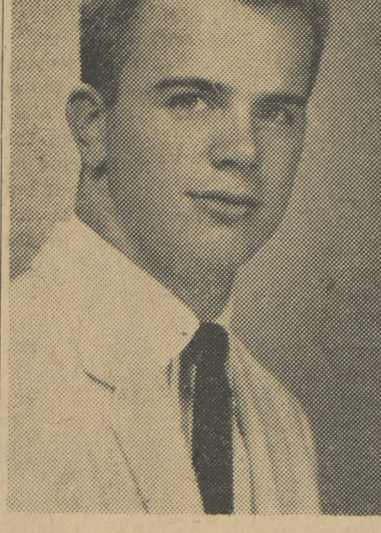

The addition of Karweta to the Pennsylvania Wage and Hour staff looks toward the possible need for greater enforcement when the minimum wage goes up to $1 per hour on March 1, according to Mr. Hargadine.

The new investigator will spend about two weeks in the Wilkes-Barre office studying background of the Federal Wage and Hour Law. He will then be sent to Philadelphia to attend an intensive training course.

Instructors in the training school will be drawn from experienced investigators throughout the Pennsylvania-Maryland-Delaware region. On completion of the school, Karweta will return to Wilkes-Barre to take up his regular duties.

Karweta attended Wilkes College and completed courses at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance. A World War II veteran, he is married to the former Lottie Bryzski of Demunds Road. He resides with his wife and two children at Druid Hills, Truckville R. D. 1. He is secretary of Dallas Kiwanis Club.

Taking Navy Exams Eckert In Line For U.S. Navy

LEE WILLIAM ECKERT

Eck And Moyer Attend University Bank Clinic

Frederick J. Eck and Homer B. Moyer of Miners National Bank were among thirteen Luzerne County bankers attending the Pennsylvania Bankers Association Bank Operations Clinic at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia this week.

Mr. Moyer, who is comptroller of Miners National, was a member of the clinic faculty. During one session he was a member of a panel discussing: "What's New in Bank Operations."

Westmoreland Senior Passes Mental Exams

Lee William Eckert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Eckert, Shavertown, a senior at Westmoreland High School, reported to the U.S. Navy at Philadelphia on Wednesday of this week to take a physical examination to qualify for training under the NROTC.

Lee passed the battery of mental examinations last December. If he passes the physical examination he will have one other obstacle, the personal interview conducted by officers of the U.S. Navy.

If Lee successfully passes the three examinations he will be accepted for training by the NROTC—the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps as a Midshipman. The Navy will pay his tuition at any one of 52 universities that he may elect to attend, for four years and will pay him $50 per month to assist in defraying his expenses. Upon graduation from college he will receive a commission in the regular U.S. Navy and will then serve the Navy for an additional four years.

Exchange Teacher To Address Truckville PTA

Truckville PTA will hear Katherine O'Connell, exchange teacher from England, at Monday night's meeting in the Grade School. Mrs. Howard Weiner, program chairman, will introduce Miss O'Connell, teacher in Edwardsville High School, speaking on differences between English and American school systems. William Pressman will preside, and third grade mothers will serve.

Girls who swear they've never been kissed, can hardly be blamed for swearing.

Westmoreland Parents Elect Lloyd Williams

Westmoreland Parents organized at Monday night's meeting in the high school, electing Lloyd Williams chairman; Mrs. Fred Eck, vice chairman; Mrs. Earl Henwood, Jr., secretary; Mrs. George Jacobs, treasurer; Miss Pearl Averett, faculty representative, and Mrs. Gerald Stout, Publicity. Mrs. George Coopy served as temporary chairman.

Mrs. Eck will have charge of the program at the March 12 meeting. Mrs. Chester Nesbitt, refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Robert Shotwell, Mrs. Andrew Sipko, Mrs. Ross Kimball and Miss Esther Saxe.

Sixty members present decided to bend every effort toward affairs pertinent to Westmoreland, not at present allying themselves with other PTA groups.

Dental Society Pageant Sunday

Luzerne County Dental Society and its Auxiliary invite the public to attend the historical pageant on dentistry at Wilkes College Gymnasium Sunday afternoon at 3:30. There will be no admission.

Students from eight Wyoming Valley schools will take part.
