HARVEYS LAKE MAN ROLLS BIG 273 GAME

Al Cowry of Harveys Lake rolled a beautiful game this week to take high for the week so far and it will be hard to beat his game. Al had a 256 posted in the ninth frame and had only to strike out to end up with a 300 game. However, he chalked up a spare in the tenth and ended with a high 273. There is no score posted for the women to this date.

Ann Sireno, with a 199, and Bob Prichard with 258 were winners last week.

Trojaneers Take Denmon Trophy

Denmon's Service Station League finished the season last week when the Trojaneers played the Super 5's. It was a contest right up through the last game. The two teams split the first game, the Supers carried the second, and the Trojaneers took the third. Then total pins went to the Trojaneers and they walked away with the trophy.

Sixth grade students at Trucksville Elementary School claim that there is nothing like a pair of white rats to demonstrate the difference between a good diet and one that is not healthful. Problem: find the rats. (Photo by Kozemchak)

If You Want To Have Pink Ears And Non-Scaly Feet, Eat Good Breakfast

Three bright-faced youngsters in Trucksville Elementary School have just completed a fascinating health study proving the value of milk in any animal's diet, human or four-footed. Miss Janice Yozviak, sixth grade teacher, found it impossible to decide between the two best essays written on Operation Rat, so she sent both of them to James A. Martin, supervising principal, and

Mr. Martin sent them to the Dallas Post, along with a picture.

The ten top bowlers for the year: Bob Spengler, Mike Gorey, Cliff Garris, Walter Gosart, Burt Owen, Allen Montross, Frank Fritzing, Tom Reese, Alton Whittaker, Jack Cortright.

League officers and team captains for the next season will be appointed at the banquet.

See You Next Fall

This winds up the regular season at the Crown Imperial Bowling Lanes. There are several leagues organized who will bowl all summer but there will be no regular reports carried. One "gem" of a league under the name of Crown Imperial Women has teams called the Diamonds, Pearls, Rubies and Emeralds. Harveys Lake Women carry the same members through the summer, and Denmon's have included men with their regular women's teams and will bowl on eight lanes. Several men's leagues have been formed. We expect to see many improved bowlers by the opening of next season, and we wish them all lots of fun and good luck.

(Just another pair of rats, hm?)

"Huey and Dewey, the two rats, have been put on two different breakfast diets, Huey on the good diet, and Dewey on the poor diet. The good diet consists of milk, bread, cereal, fruits, and hard-boiled egg. Dewey's poor diet consists of bread, and water, coffee or soda.

"Both rats are weighed each week to determine the increase of weight. When Huey first arrived, he weighed sixty grams, and Dewey weighed sixty-five grams. Now, three weeks later, Huey weighs 178 grams and Dewey only 95. So you can see the results of an adequate breakfast diet.

"Signs of a poor diet that show up on Huey are tangled fur, scaly tail and feet, dull color of the ears, and considerable nervousness.

"All the work that must be done, such as feeding the rats, cleaning the cage, and bringing in the food, is done by the students, each getting a turn for the job. Everyone cooperates, and we have a wonderful time.

"One day our teacher was startled when we were cleaning out the rat's cage. We put the rats into a coffee can before we clean out the wood shavings, so that they aren't in our way. When we put Dewey into the can, he was so nervous that he jumped up, knocked off the top, and almost escaped!

"We owe a lot of thanks and appreciation to the High School Shop for the use of the cage, and also the wood shavings which we used as bedding for the rats.

"I think that experimenting with the rats has given us a good time as well as helping us in our school-work. We have learned more about cooperating with each other, and it has helped us to realize why people, as well as rats should eat a good nourishing breakfast each morning."

Peggy Perkins Writes

And here is Peggy's contribution: "The Art Exhibit being on April 30, 1957, you can imagine how busy the sixth grade of the Trucksville School must have been that day. They seemed to be excited about something else, too. I know now, this was the day the Dairy Council brought them two rats for an experiment to show all the children of the school the great importance of a well-balanced diet.

"The class decided on the names Huey and Dewey for the rats. They have been staying in the sixth grade room rent free since the day they came.

"Dewey was a little larger and weighed sixty-five grams, so we decided that he should be put on the poor diet. Huey, being smaller and weighing only sixty grams, was put on a well balanced diet. When they came to stay with us, they both had white soft fur, bright sparkling eyes, and pink ears, feet and tails. They were perfectly healthy specimens. I guess they wanted to impress us.

"Dewey's diet consisted of water, coffee or soda, and bread. Huey's diet consisted of milk, eggs, cereal, bread, and fruit. We fed them every morning, and we gave them a fresh drink at the end of the school day.

"At first there wasn't much difference in their reactions and appearance, but after a week we began to notice that Dewey was nervous, his tail was beginning to get scaly, and he weighed seventy-four grams. Huey slept most of the time, his tail and ears were pink, and he weighed 99 grams.

"At the end of the second week Dewey remained nervous, his tail was scaly, one eye was almost closed, and he weighed 84 grams. Huey was in perfect condition and he weighed 145 grams.

"At the end of the third week, Dewey tried consistently to get to the good food on Huey's side of the cage, his feet and tail were scaly, and he weighed 98 grams. Huey

Two Township Teachers Start For Colorado

Grace Barrall and Ethel Schultz, Home-Making and Commercial teachers from Dallas-Franklin-Monroe Township schools, started for Colorado Monday morning in Miss Schultz's car, to attend summer school at Colorado State University, winning credits toward their Master's degrees.

"It was really surprising the way all the children in the class contributed by bringing in food and taking care of the rats. The following boys were in charge of cleaning the cage and weighing the rats: John Wardell, Andy Ungar, and Kenneth Herwig. Miss Yozviak, our teacher, supervised the work.

"Everyone made a graph to keep a record of their weight, so you can see how it brought in other subjects, too. The best graph was picked to be put on the board.

"One day two boys came in and were surprised to see Miss Yozviak with her hand on top of the cage. The rats had gotten so big that they could bob the cage top up and down.

"Now that the rats have left, we look back and realize how helpful the experiment was to our class. It brought in other subjects and really showed us how beneficial a good breakfast is to the body."

Don Elyse Sherwood

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwood, of Chase, announce the birth of a son, Don Elyse Sherwood, Saturday morning at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Sherwood is the former Florence Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hughes of Kingston. Don has a sister, Denise Adele, sixteen months old.

Editor's note: Where did the rats go when they left? The suspense is terrific.
