While county highways are in the best shape in years, somebody has slipped at Demunds Corners and at other dangerous intersections in the Back Mountain area. Here where four heavily travelled roads from Lake Catalpa, Centermoreland, Fernbrook and Dallas intersect, there are no STOP signs. Much of the intersection is blind, note how the view of the Lake Catalpa road is cut off by the house. Motorists approaching the intersection from all directions are confused and are unable to tell who has the right of way. At many other intersections high weeds, undergrowth, piles of ashes are constant accident breeders.

HARRY L. OHLMAN

Harry L. Ohlman's untimely death early Friday evening stunned the community. Mr. Ohlman, 53, was stricken with a heart attack and died within fifteen minutes after saying that he felt ill. He had seemed well on the road to recovery from a similar heart attack in January and a stroke that incapacitated him for several weeks in March. He had not completely regained his old sparkle, but had been able to appear briefly on the Library Auction block, early in July, where for years he had taken the stellar role of auctioneer. On Wednesday he attended the Shrine picnic, and on Friday morning drove his car.

Beautiful Flowers In Chase Garden

One of the most beautiful flower gardens in this area is located at Chase Corners. It is the product of the care and love of Thomas Barstow and despite the fact that it is located some distance back from West Nanticoke Road, it has been stopping traffic for several weeks. It is located between the store at Chase Corners and Jackson Fire Hall and is well worth a trip to see.
