Ruggles

Hi, folks! Sure was a short summer, wasn't it? Looks like my "spring" house cleaning is gonna run into "fall" house cleaning 'cause I swore I wasn't going to clean down stairs until the furnace was out—and that's a laugh! I think I'll dig out all of our red flannels tomorrow! Here I am, complaining about the weather again, and come darning time, we'll be gasping for breath.

Rita and Bob Butler had a very lovely wiener roast on Saturday night for the "Young Crusaders." Crowded around the fire, shivering and eating hot dogs were our teacher, Mrs. Charles Williams, Richard Williams, Connie Smith, Margaret Sorber, Treva Traver, Joe Volley, Mrs. Lewis Higgins, Ky and I, the host and hostess. The business meeting followed inside, after which Richard Williams showed slides.

Ky's folks, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hummel, Sr., and Paul Grey had Friday night supper with us to celebrate "Grandpa" Lou's birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ortwin of Muhlenburg visited later.

Margaret Sorber is home from Overbrook School, where she is a house-mother, for her summer vacation. She will return in September.

Mrs. Glenn Kocher celebrated her birthday on Sunday. Karen Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, and Beverly Swire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Swire, also celebrated their birthdays the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Traver and Clayton had Mrs. Traver's father and brother, Altee and Harold Kocher, for Father's Day dinner.

The Ruggles Bible School started out with a bang! There were fifty-one present.

Connie Smith, Margaret McHose, Priscilla Wandell and Alice Platt, accompanied by their Home Ec. teacher, Mildred Katchmar, attended the PFHA convention at Penn State three days last week. Connie went to sing in the state chorus, Margaret modeled in the fashion show, Priscilla went as delegate and Alice as alternate delegate. The girls had a grand time.

Clarence Oberst, Larry Cornell and Tom Swire left on Monday morning to spend three days at Penn State attending the janitor's convention. Was that Penn State or State Pen? (joking, of course, neighbors!)

Here's a belated Father's Day greeting for all Dads. Hope you all had a fine day.

Little Jeff Honeywell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Honeywell, has been ill the past week.

Each and everyone is invited to Ruggles Methodist Church on Sunday evening at 7:45 to enjoy the fellowship and good old-fashioned hymn singing. If you can't sing, come along and hum; if you can't hum, come and whistle; if you can't whistle, just come along and listen; we know you won't be sorry you did! Under the direction of Luther Hummel, Jr.

This School Owns Its Buses, Makes Its Rules

Rev. Francis A. Kane, pastor of Gate of Heaven Church and administrator of Gate of Heaven School, drives one of the four school buses owned by the school.

When asked "What is the policy of the school on picking up children within walking distance?" he said: "As we have privately owned buses, we can use our own discretion in picking up children who would otherwise have to cross highways which are not guarded by the police or by traffic lights."

Hugh Scott, Candidate For Senator, Tells What He Learned In Campaign

Looking backward over my sixteen years as a Congressman, it is good to know that I can still count as personal friends every opponent I ever had. On one occasion, I spent the morning at home after Election Day, hashing over the campaign with my personable opponent of the day before. After all, LIKING people is lots more rewarding than RESENTING them, isn't it? With this thought in mind, my statement at the close of the polls on Primary

Day read: "I am pleased to be successful in a campaign in which I have treated all of the participants, whether in opposition or not, as friends, and they have treated me as friends. "I became a candidate without labels, and I have been nominated, I think, without scars. "I look forward to working with Republicans, Independents and discerning Democrats in the fall campaign."
