Clifford Wilkes Burial Saturday

Body Flown From Alaska By Plane

A Ruggles Hollow boy who met a tragic death in Alaska over a month ago, will be buried tomorrow in Kocher Cemetery, where arrangements for the reception of the body have been made for a number of weeks. Rev. Ruth L. Underwood will officiate at 3:30.

Clifford Wilkes, 19, came home yesterday by plane to Philadelphia, train to Wilkes-Barre. Friends may call at the Bronson Funeral Home this evening to pay their respects and offer sympathy to the family.

Funeral arrangements, scheduled for early August, after finding of the body in frigid Alaskan waters near Fairbanks, were postponed because of the discovery that Clifford, who disappeared from his rooming house July 28, had not drowned, but had died by other means. A number of inquests followed the finding of his body August 9. His death remains a mystery.

Clifford, who went to Alaska with friends early in the summer to find work, had not been able to get employment. He was an experienced workman, having been employed for three summers past at the Abood green tomato plant packing plant in Dallas.

Friends with whom he had been staying in Fairbanks assumed that he was hitchhiking home and were not unduly alarmed. His sister, Marian, flying to Alaska to join her husband, Harry Sieklar, arrived there a few days before she was called upon to help identify the body, recently found floating in the river.

Clifford is survived by his mother, Mrs. Rita Wilkes, wife of the late Claude Wilkes; sisters and brothers: Mrs. Marian Sieklar, Harveys Lake, now in Alaska; Mrs. Carrie Yaglow, Mrs. Mildred Paschinski and Mrs. Lillian Shultz of Pottsville, N. J.; Claude, Jr., Harveys Lake R. D., now in New Jersey; Mrs. Vera Spencer, Waterloo, N. Y.; Verne, Violet, Clarence and Keith, at home; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mina Harrison, Ruggles Hollow.

Formerly Of Shavertown, Dies In Dayton Ohio

James J. Morrissy, 57, former resident of Shavertown and circulation director for Wilkes-Barre Publishing Company, died in Dayton, Ohio, Wednesday morning, a few hours after admission suffering from a coronary occlusion.

Upon leaving the Wilkes-Barre Publishing Company in 1946, he became manager of circulation of the Journal-Herald in Dayton, later personal director for Dayton Newspapers, Inc.

Westmoreland Teams And Band Have New Blue & White Uniforms

Football at Westmoreland High School is ready to burst into the news! Officially, the season begins September 19, at Tunkhannock Stadium.

But for the squad, football season began August 18. The boys practiced on the Westmoreland field under the supervision of Coach Anthony Road and Assistant Coaches

Thomas Carr and George Dombek. The team's uniforms are blue and white—the new school colors. Circle that date, September 19, on your sports calendar. Westmoreland band will be there, resplendent in new uniforms. Join the crowd to root the Westmoreland Senior High School Team to victory!

Priscilla Alden Smith

Mrs. Florence Werner, Pioneer Avenue, got a midnight call on Wednesday from Trenton, N. J., informing her that she was a grandmother for the second time. Priscilla Alden Smith, expected by Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Smith for the past two weeks, was born Wednesday night. Mrs. Werner is relaxing after the strain. It is the first child for the couple, married ten years, and considering adopting a baby.
