Population, Birth Rate To Soar In 1960's; Big Changes Are Ahead

Washington, D. C.—A 20 per cent increase in population and a soaring birth rate is predicted for the next decade by the Kiplinger organization in its annual report on population and business growth in the United States, released recently.

The "Soaring Sixties" will bring another wave of economic expansion and further shifts in the habits and needs of the population of this country, Kiplinger says. In the late 60's population will reach 208 million, compared to the 1958 total of 175 million. And the birth rate will jump from an annual rate of four million babies to five million a year.

"Also more babies per family. Parents used to want two . . . now want three. The trends have been well established and there is nothing in sight to change them," the report says. "This means, among other things, a much greater market for children's goods, a demand for bigger houses with more bedrooms."

"The coming high tide of marriages is now only three years off. Children born in the 40's, when the spectacular high birth rate began, will marry in the 60's, pushing the marriage rate a third above today's rate. Average marriage rate probably will continue about as now, men at age 23, women at age 20."

The result of this high marriage rate will be a stepped-up demand for houses, furniture, home appliances, cars and all other things that are needed to equip new families.

According to the Kiplinger report, "By the late 60's, there will be 20 million oldsters, over 65. Now there are 15 million. Length of widowhood will be about what it is now, nine years."

The future will see 75 million youngsters under 18, now 60 million. That means even more gearing of our lives and living to the children. Teen-agers alone will make up a larger proportion of the total population than now.

With more oldsters and more youngsters, both in numbers and proportion, the people of working ages up to 65 will have their hands full producing enough goods to meet all the needs.

"But," says Kiplinger, "it will be done by greater productivity with more older workers employed and less full retirement at ANY age. More women will work, many more than now."

"Don't run the risk of later moaning, 'If I'd only known!' You DO know . . . and in advance . . . about the 'Soaring Sixties,'" says Kiplinger.

Home On Leave

Pvt. Terry S. Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Evans, Church Street, has been spending the holidays with his parents. Pvt. Evans recently completed two courses, one as Army Medical Corpsman, and the other in Brook Army Hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he underwent instruction as an X-ray technician.

He left Friday for his new assignment at Fort Chaffee, Arkansas, where he will enter a period of actual X-ray technical work in the Army hospital for a period of six weeks after which he will be given further assignment in an army hospital.

Pvt. Evans graduated in 1957 from Dallas-Franklin Township High School, and entered a three-year enlistment in the Army in May of this year.

Two way radio communication is being installed in the straight, Oklahoma school buses to minimize the dangers of travel during blizzards.
