Ada Coolbaugh Passes Away

Mrs. Ada Shaver Coolbaugh was laid to rest Monday afternoon in Woodlawn Cemetery, following services conducted by Rev. Russell Lawry, pastor of Dallas Methodist Church from the Disque Funeral Home. Pallbearers were Melvin Mosier Harold Titman, Clarence LaBar, John Churry, Floyd Ide, and David Evans.
Mrs. Coolbaugh, who would have been 81 years old in April, died Friday afternoon at the home of her son, Allen Coolbaugh, at Miners Mills. Up until fourteen months ago, Mrs. Coolbaugh had shared a home on Norton Avenue with her daughter, Mrs. Antoinette Mason, second grade teacher at Dallas Borough School. In the fall of 1957, she moved to her son Allen's home.
She was born on Pioneer Avenue in the home built by her father, Elmer Bennett Shaver, who helped operate the Ryman-Shaver lumber mill south of Dallas, powered by water from Toby's Creek. Using his knowledge of wood, Mr. Shaver built the family home of the best lumber, using a great deal of black walnut. The grove of tall pine trees at the side of the property was planted at about the time Mrs. Coolbaugh was born. The house is now the home of the T. M. B. Hicks family.
Mrs. Coolbaugh's mother was the late Ida Antoinette Bishop Shaver. Her great-grandparents were Fayette and Sally Allen, pioneer settlers of the area.
Mrs. Coolbaugh was the only child of her parents. An old clipping tells of Elmer Shaver's laying the foundations for his home on Pioneer Avenue before his marriage with Ida Bishop in March of 1877.
Ada Shaver was educated in Dallas schools and at Wilkes-Barre Institute.
She is survived by these children: Benjamin, of Newtown, Bucks County; Mrs. Mason, Dallas; Allen, superintendent of maintenance of Wilkes-Barre Transit Company; Irwin, newly appointed chief of police of Dallas Township; Richard, Philadelphia; and Mrs. Jane LaRosa, Atlantic City.

For eighteen years he was with the Walter Shaver Trucking firm in Shavertown. An ardent sportsman, he was active in coaching and managing for the Senior Teeners' Baseball League and for Shavertown Methodist Team of the Church League. He was a faithful member of Shavertown Methodist Church.
He was born in Center Moreland, son of the late William and Catherine Whitlock LaBar. His mother was from Lockville.
He is survived by his widow, the former Mary Weaver, two daughters, Mrs. Samuel Margellina, of Idetown and Mrs. Richard Christ, at home; a sister, Mrs. Lance Harris of Tunkhannock; a brother, Henry Whitaker of Woodstock, N. J.; three grandchildren.
Mr. LaBar, widely known as Pop, had no sons, but he took a warm interest in all boys. One especially he loved — Jim Lohman, of The Dallas Post. "See that boy going down the street?" he'd say, "that's MY boy." After the death of Jim's father, Mr. LaBar paid special attention to Jim, taking a father's place for him insofar as it was possible.

Breaks Ankle As He Steps In Front Of Car On Ice

Elwood Higgins, Jr., 14, Sweet Valley, suffered a broken ankle Sunday at noon while on his way home from services at Church of Christ, when he crossed the road in front of a station wagon driven by Rev. Ray Garney, pastor of the Pentecostal Church at Muhlenburg. Elwood, who wears a hearing aid, apparently did not hear the warning blast of the horn as Rev. Garney applied brakes on the icy pave.
He was taken to General Hospital in the Bronson ambulance, where X-Rays showed a clean break of both bones of the lower leg just above the ankle. Elwood is in a cast.
His father, Elwood Sr. is a bus driver for Ross Township elementary school. The family, former residents of Meeker, moved to Sweet Valley recently.
