

Several Local Men Are Members Of Prisoner of War Camp Unit

Two Back Mountain residents were among twelve members of the 2009th Prisoner of War Camp Headquarters unit, U. S. Army Reserve, who were involved in personnel changes announced during the week by Lt. Col. Abraham George, commanding officer.

Promoted to private first class was William J. Hill, R. D. 2, Chase Road, Trucksville.

Sgt. Robert L. Franklin, of 126 Mt. Greenwood Road, Trucksville, was assigned primary duty as Supply Sergeant, Prisoner Enclosure Section.

Among the other Back Mountain residents assigned to the 2009th Prisoner of War Camp Headquarters are: Lt. Col. Carl B. Olsen, 138 Terrace Avenue, Trucksville; Maj. Jack H. Magee, Terrace Drive, Shavertown; Maj. John J. Mulhern, 22 Joseph Street, Dallas; PFC. Gilbert B. Osko, Harveys Lake.

The 2009th Prisoner of War Camp Headquarters unit meets every Monday evening from 8 to 10 for training at the U. S. Army Reserve Armory on the East End Boulevard.

Mildred Devens entertained members of the Dallas Senior Woman's Club Board at her home Monday evening when plans were discussed for attendance at the United Nations' Smorgasbord at Prince of Peace Church Wednesday, 6:30. Reservations should be in by tomorrow, Saturday, with Mrs. Donald Clark.

Mrs. Verne Groff asked members to send donations for the Value Shop Treasure Table January 31.

Falls From Ladder While Fixing T-V

Francis R. Warren, 140 Tunkhannock Highway, injured his knee when he fell from the roof of his home Sunday afternoon while adjusting a television aerial. Standing on the ladder erected against the side of the one and a half story house, he reached along the gutter for a pair of pliers and overextended himself.

Dallas Community ambulance was out on a call. Kingston Township ambulance staffed by Arnold Yeast, Ed Carey and William Frederick took Mr. Warren to Nesbitt Hospital, where X-Rays revealed no fracture, but extensive bruising and strain. He was permitted to return to his home.

Mr. Warren, junior researcher in the Smith, Kline and French laboratories in Philadelphia, will be laid up for the rest of the week, hopeful of returning to his work on Monday.

Men who answered the call were instantly available, as they had just emerged from the annual meeting of Kingston Township Ambulance Association.

Mrs. Barnes Breaks Arm Skating With Girl Scouts

Mrs. Jack Barnes broke her arm Saturday afternoon while roller skating with a group of fifteen Girl Scouts from Troop 200 at Kingston Rollerdom. It was a bad fracture of the elbow, but there was still half an hour to go, the Girl Scouts having been promised a period of skating that ended at four. Holding her elbow in her left hand, Mrs. Barnes waited, then drove her share of the troop back to Dallas. Power steering, she reports, is a great help.

X-Ray showed considerable damage, with possibility of an operation to come.

Mrs. Barnes, Elmcrest, leader of the Scout Troop, says she expects to keep right on with the troop work.

Claude Cook Observes Birthday Anniversary

The Post extends its congratulations to Claude Cooke who celebrated an important birthday anniversary on Wednesday.

Mr. Cooke was born 72 years ago January 28, in the home, built by his father, and now owned by Mrs. R. J. W. Templin on Woodlawn Avenue.

His father was the late Charles Cooke, pioneer civil engineer and his mother, Clara, was one of nine daughters of the late Ira D. Shaver, early Back Mountain businessman. These daughters married into practically every prominent Back Mountain family.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooke have three children, Claudia, now Mrs. Francis Kamoor, Philadelphia; Betty, color coordinator and fabric designer for Millikin's Woolens, New York City, and Charles, with Garter Oil Company, Venezuela. They have three grandsons and one granddaughter.

Mrs. Mansfield, 56, Of Noxen, Dies

Mrs. Elsie Dennis Mansfield, 56, of Noxen, died Tuesday morning at General Hospital, where she was admitted four hours earlier after a heart attack.

She was born in Noxen, a daughter of the late Arthur and Myrtis Dimmock Saxe, and was a member of Noxen Methodist Church.

Surviving are her husband, Samuel, a son, Harold Dennis, Jersey City, N. J.; daughters, Mrs. Carl Meeker, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. Norma Meeker, Beaumont; stepsons, Floyd and Clifford Mansfield, Lewistown, Idaho; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Ellen DePew, White Cottage, Ohio; twelve grandchildren and three great-grandchildren; sisters, Mrs. Earl Johnson, Beaumont, and Mrs. Russell Keiper, Niagara Falls; brothers, Walter, Canton, Pa., and Herbert, Noxen.

The funeral will be held from Nelson Funeral Home, Beaumont, Friday at 2 p. m., Rev. John Gordon officiating. Interment will be in Orcutt Cemetery, Noxen. Friends may call Thursday 2 to 4 and 7 to 10 p. m.

Was This The Last Yoke Of Oxen

Seventy years ago when The Dallas Post was founded, scenes like this were common in the Back Mountain area. The last yoke of oxen driven in the area are supposed to have been owned and driven by the late Elias Frantz who owned and operated the farm at DeMunds operated as a duck farm by Paul Warriner. The home is now owned by Lawrence Updyke. This picture of Mr. Frantz and his oxen was taken some forty years ago by the late William Evans of Idetown. Ira Frantz, no relative, recalls that Elias had two sons George and Clarence, now dead, and a daughter. He is of the opinion that the oxen were the last ones used for farm work in this area.

Herald Tribune Critic To Talk To Musicians

Paul Henry Lang, chief music critic of the New York Herald-Tribune, professor of Musicology, Columbia University; editor of the Musical Quarterly, lecturer and author, will be guest speaker at the public meeting of Wilkes-Barre Chapter of the American Guild of Organists to be held Monday, February 2, at 8:15 p. m. in the Educational Building of First Methodist Church, Wilkes-Barre.

His subject, "Development of Music of the Past Twenty-five Years," is in accordance with the local chapter's celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary as a "full-fledged" member of this national organization. Marion E. Wallace, organist-choir director of Kingston Presbyterian Church, was its first dean. Carl F. Roth, organist-choir director of St. John's Lutheran Church, is the present dean.

Seyern Newberrys Are Living In Deland, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Seyern Newberry and Sev Jr. have been living in their home at 1636 E. N. Y. Ave. Deland, Florida, for the past month. They expect to stay until late in March. Sev conducts a thriving sign business there with the help of his son. They plan to enlarge their present work space. They already have a successful neon plant installed. Sev Jr. is doing pin stripping on hot rods and has done some beautiful murals in town.

They write that the robins and kinglets have not yet arrived but there are plenty of cardinals and meadowlarks.

LEGION NEWS

Legionnaires plan to watch the American Legion's annual "For God and Country" program which will be telecast over the T.V. network of the National Broadcasting Company on Sunday, from 2 to 2:30 p.m.

The kitchen at the Legion home will be closed until February 8, 1959. Cook is on vacation.

The recent storm filled the social room with water. We wish to thank Dallas Fire Department for the use of its portable pump and the able assistance of Paul Shaver, Sr., Don Bulford, Sandy McCulloch, Al Shaffer, Sr., Harold Brobst and any others who helped to clean up the mess.

We wish to welcome Don Lindbloom, a recent transfer to our Post. Don will reside at the Grace Cave residence. Also John Chesnovitch, a transfer, who lives at Oak Hill, and Cecil L. Sutton, a new member, from Church Street.

Second membership notices will be in the mail soon. Bill O'Brien, membership chairman, hopes to report to Commander Reese, one hundred per cent membership at the February 13 meeting.

Ed Lumley has resigned as Post steward and is now employed at Linear.

Condaras Improved After Long Illness

Friends of Gus Condaras, Center Hill Road, are glad to see him out again after being a hospital patient for two months following a heart attack. One of the most active men in the Back Mountain area, he is the proprietor of the Colony Restaurant at Harveys Lake and has long been associated with the restaurant business both here and in Wyoming Valley.

Insect pests in the United States nullify the labor of at least 1,000,000 working men yearly.
