

Dallas Legion Is Host Sunday To Mocanaqua

Legion Will Be At Full Strength After Two Defeats

Dallas Legion will tangle with the always tough Mocanaqua A's at Dallas lineup for this Sunday's Junior High School field.

DICK FOSKO TO PITCH

Dick Fosko, who teaches school at Atlantic Highlands High School, New Jersey, will return to the Dallas lineup for this Sunday's thriller with Mocanaqua.

To date the Dallas entry in the Wyoming League has dropped its first two starts, losing to Buttonwood 2-0 in the home opener, and to Hanover 9-3 at Hanover.

Jay M. Llewellyn Jr., business manager announced the acquisition of third basemen Joe Richkofski, who turned in a fine performance in his debut in the Hanover game. He should supply the extra spark to return the Legion lads to their winning ways. Joe, commonly known throughout the league as "Joker" played with Hanover the past two seasons and attends Bloomsburg State Teachers' College.

This Sunday's lineup will find the home club loaded with power and at full strength for the first time this year. A tight defense is centered around "Smiling" Patty Salansky at short stop and veteran Bob "Nellie Fox" Grose at second base. To make the job a little easier for Fosko the Dallas outfield boasts of being the strongest defensively in the league, with Jack "Hub Cap" Sims in center field, Ralph "Homeroom" Hendershot in left, and speed merchant Jimmy Ferris in right field.

On the receiving end of Dick Fosko's curves will be Fran "line drive" Alansky a dangerous hitter with plenty of know-how behind the plate.

A big crowd is always on hand for the Mocanaqua rivalry and this game should be a real sizzler.

Mrs. Elizabeth Warden Helped Shape The Area

Mrs. Elizabeth Warden, 91, of Harris Hill Road, died Tuesday afternoon at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital. Her funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 at the family home, Rev. Robert T. Webster and Rev. Arthur Mayo officiating. Burial will be in Cedar Crest Cemetery.

Mrs. Warden taught in one-room schools when she was a young woman, having in her care her own sisters and brothers, Dorman, Addison, Guy, Arch, Eunice and Emma Woolbert. In the school on Mt. Greenwood Road, she prepared the future Dr. Howell for college, and taught children of the Youngblood and Schooley families. Earlier, she taught in Beaumont and on Harris Hill.

A native of Noxen, she was daughter of the late Almon and Sarah Phoenix Woolbert, who moved when she was a young girl to Trucksville, settling in what is now Dr. Grant's home on the main highway.

She graduated from Beaumont Academy, and started teaching at 17. She was a member of Trucksville Methodist Church and the Reynolds Sunday School class, also president of Ladies Aid (now the WSCS) for twenty-five years, until failing health dictated retirement.

Survivors are: a daughter, Mrs. Arline Warden Bessmer, Trucksville; a sister, Mrs. Eunice Norris, Trucksville; brothers Dorman and Addison Woolbert, Shavertown; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Arrangements are by Bronson.

Lawrence Jones Has Badly Fractured Leg

Lawrence Jones, Upper Demunds Road, has a compound fracture of the lower leg, sustained when he was pinned between a car and the wall at Shorten Motors, Pierce Street, Kingston.

He is in extension at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital, under care of Dr. Sgarlat, with possible surgery to come.

Passing behind another car in the parking lot, he was caught when the driver of the car gunned the motor and backed up suddenly.

Both men are employees of Shorten Motor Company.

In Pajama Game

Jane Cave, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Cave of Idetown, is a member of the cast of Pajama Game, current production of Little Theatre. Jane also had a part in College Misericordia's production of Sweethearts. She has been a music student at Misericordia for the past ten years.

To Retire As Dean of Wilkes College

Mrs. John H. Doane, Idetown, will retire July 1 as Dean of Women at Wilkes College, a position she has filled for five and one half years, according to an announcement by Dr. Eugene Farley, president.

Mrs. Doane, a former resident of Trucksville, had not expected to fill the office, planning only to remain in charge for three months as an accommodation to the college. She slipped into the office so easily, and with such complete understanding of a position which put her in close contact with young girls, that she was persuaded to stay on a semi-permanent basis.

Dr. Doane, former chief at Veteran's Hospital after long years of private medical practice, retired some time ago. He and Mrs. Doane plan to make a trip to France, then spend the winter months with their children: Dr. John H. Doane Jr., faculty member at Temple University Medical School; Dr. Wilton A. Doane, thoracic surgeon in Santa Barbara, California; Dr. Joseph A. Doane, urologist, West Palm Beach; and Mrs. Peter A. Milne, Providence.

Mrs. Doane graduated from Mansfield State Teachers College, did advanced work at Emerson College, and returned to Mansfield to instruct at her alma mater. She has taken a leading part in civic affairs since coming to Wyoming Valley in 1946.

Making Plans For The New College Manor Development

Local Builders Start Work On New College Manor Development

Site Suitable For 55 New Homes Is Near College On Old Lake Road

In a unique, joint effort three competitive builders will join forces, under guidance of LU.RE.CO. (Lumber Dealers Research Council), to develop College Manor, a 26-acre plot near College Misericordia.

Participating in this cooperative venture are Dodson & Hudak, Back Mountain contractors, John B. Perrugino, Luzerne builder and Bennett Lumber Company, Luzerne, representatives in this area for the Lumber Dealers Research Council.

Next week the first of these new style homes will be started. Wilbur Shorts, Bennett Lumber Co., explains that the new technique to be used will consist of using standardized, component home parts that can be adapted to any kind of home design. It is expected that on Thursday of next week, using workmen from each of the three concerns, a complete outside skeleton of a home will be erected. This will include the outside walls, roof, windows, doors etc., in one day's work. Public will be invited to view the proceedings.

Purpose of this one-day erection job is to demonstrate the system of building component unit homes which LU.RE.CO. explains as being the modern method of home building that all builders will eventually adopt.

The present site is large enough to allow the building of 55 new homes and it is located on the Old Lake Road across from the upper entrance to College Misericordia. Information about this new development is available from any of the participating builders.

Makes Contribution To Honor Doctor's Memory

Arthur Ide, Tunkhannock, dropped around the other day to make his contribution to the Back Mountain Doctors' memorial at General Hospital.

As he made out his check, he recalled that his brother, Walter Sweetland Ide, formerly of Lehman but now of East Chester, N. Y., had been one of the first dozen babies delivered by Dr. H. A. Brown, when the Brown and Ide families lived next door to each other in Lehman.

Dr. Brown had just finished his medical education and his internship at General Hospital, and was setting up his practice in Lehman.

The baby boy he delivered is now a research chemist for the Boroughs Wellcome Company in Tuckahoe, N. Y. He is a graduate of Wyoming Seminary, Susquehanna University, attended Duke and New York Universities.

His wife, the late Elizabeth L. Ide, was buried in Lehman Cemetery a few days ago. She died May 4 after a long illness. Her life was filled with philanthropic activities connected with her position as chairman of a hospital committee which makes visits to bed-ridden residents of the Westchester County Home. She was a member of the Scarsdale Lutheran Church.

Jenkins To Talk On Library Plan For Expansion

Annual Dinner Will Be Opening Gun For 13th Auction

Mitchell Jenkins, president of the Back Mountain Library Association, will speak on tentative plans for expansion at the Library Auction dinner Monday night at Irem Country Club.

The original building and the Annex are already overcrowded, and the library needs more space in order to serve the needs of the community as a center of culture as well as a focus for book-lovers.

Don Smith and Myron Baker, co-chairmen of the Auction, July 10 and 11, will speak briefly.

Chairmen and personnel of committees will be announced.

David Joseph will be song leader. Mrs. Baker has charge of table decorations.

Thomas Morgan, chairman, says 500 tickets have been distributed, and response has been good. Reservations must be made by Saturday.

Robert M. Scott will bring one of his hand-made doll bassinets for auction, and expects to make a dozen more by July. One of Mrs. Arthur Newman's beautifully dressed dolls will be offered to the highest bidder, and there will be a number of surprise items.

The annual dinner is the official opening of the Library Auction season.

There will be a number of door prizes.

Mobile Chest X-Ray Unit Comes To Dallas In June

Mobile unit of Wyoming Valley Tuberculosis and Health Association will be stationed in central Dallas each Tuesday during June, 10 to 4. To take chest X-rays of Back Mountain residents.

Mrs. Herman Otto announces her committee chairmen: Stores, Mrs. Robert Fleming; Doctors, Mrs. Robert Bodycomb; banks, Mrs. Fred Eck; schools, Mrs. Howard Wiley; churches, Mrs. Joseph Schneider, restaurants, Mrs. Ralph Dixon; post-offices, Mrs. Alan Montross; transportation, Mrs. Raymond Elston.

Names of committee personnel will be published soon.

County Fights Will Dominate Voting Tuesday

Kingston Township Lake and Lehman Have Spirited Contests

With Back Mountain leaders playing a bigger part in Republican county politics than ever before, interest here is high in the outcome of Tuesday's Primary election.

Leading the three distinct Republican tickets are Peter D. Clark, county chairman of the Republican Party, who heads the so-called Loyal Ticket; Senator Harold Flack who heads the Victory Republican Ticket, and County Commissioner Newell Wood, Harveys Lake who heads the Regular Republican Ticket.

Clark and Wood are both candidates for County Commissioner on opposing slates. In addition, Dr. Malcolm Borthwick of Shavertown is a candidate for Coroner on the Regular Republican slate.

Few voters in the Back Mountain area are willing to predict the outcome. The Clark forces apparently have the edge with most of the regular Republican organization forces supporting them. The slate headed by Senator Harold Flack comes next in favor while the slate headed by Commissioner Wood appears to be a poor third.

No one expects that any of the slates will sweep all of their candidates into nomination and most feel that this will be a good thing for the Republican Party which enjoyed a rebirth of idealism four years ago but has now sunk into the doldrums, and lost much of the confidence of the independent voter.

Locally there are a number of spirited contests in Back Mountain townships for School Directors, Supervisors and minor officials.

These along with the county Republican contests should bring out a heavy vote on Tuesday.

Dallas Borough
Dallas Borough will nominate four members to Council, a school director and a Justice of the Peace.

Interest centers in the Council contests where Fred Jennings, veteran Glen Alden, engineer, is striving for one of the seats now held by Sterling Williams, Harold Brobst, Robert Parry and Steve Hartman. Because many will vote only for Jennings he may be successful.

Durrelle T. Scott, completing a six-year term on School Board, is opposed by Earl W. Phillips. Both men are fine school board material.

Leonard Harvey is unopposed for Justice-of-the-Peace but is expected to have opposition in November because of a Democratic plan to write in the name of Henry Peterson.

Kingston Township
The big and only fight in Kingston Township is the three-way contest for supervisor where Ross Williams, long time resident, and Austin C. Lyne, former army officer, will try to unseat Harry Bogart, incumbent. Bogart is completing his first term as Supervisor following an eighteen-year term as tax collector. Lyne has the support of the progressive Republican wing in the Township and is showing considerable strength.

Walter Phillips is the only candidate for the School Board position being vacated by John Wardell. Clyde Brace is also unopposed for Auditor. No candidates have filed on the Democratic ticket.

The County ticket headed by Peter D. Clark and Willard Peck for County Commissioner has a strong township organization and will probably carry the township.

Dallas Township
Jack Stanley, running for school board, and William Krimmel, candidate for Supervisor, appear to be sure-ins. Both men are presently filling out unexpired terms to which they were recently appointed. The Board of Supervisors named Krimmel to fill the vacancy created by the death of Arthur Montross and the School Board appointed Stanley to fill the unexpired term of Frank Townsend who resigned. John Miller, DeMunds is also a candidate for Supervisor. Arch Hutchison is unopposed for Auditor.

Hugh Carr is unopposed for the Democratic nomination for School Board, a handicap hard to overcome in Republican Dallas Township. The Township will give a resounding majority to the County slate headed by Peter D. Clark.

Lake Township
Center of interest in Lake Township is the contest for Supervisor. Otto A. Biery represents the modern trend that business management is important in a Township with almost $2 million assessed valuation. He is opposed by Cornelius Smith who served as Supervisor some years ago.

Biery is business trained and has been a capable auditor. Smith is an old timer with many friends.

Carleton N. Kocher is unopposed for school director.

Edward Craig, a disabled veteran and popular is unopposed on the Democratic ticket for Supervisor.

Architects Show Model Of New Sr. High School

Myers Is Leaving The Bus Business, Sells To Emanuel

A model of the new senior high school was on display Tuesday night at Dallas School board meeting. James Lacy and Paul Rodda, of Lacy Atherton and Davis, were on hand to explain changes made in dimensions to comply with State specifications.

Mr. Lacy and Mr. Rodda, conferring with Mr. Trexler at headquarters in Harrisburg, were given the green light on three proposals, turned down on three others which were not considered reimbursable by the State.

An adroit redrawing of plans for bleacher space in the gymnasium results in very little diminution of space for spectators and athletes, though it complies with the directive to cut down the hoped-for extra length of overall walls considered desirable by the architects and board, but not within the framework of specifications as authorized by Harrisburg.

Extra space of 1300 square feet in the auditorium was not allowed, but again a workable plan has been drawn, to reduce the seating space by very little. Architects had hoped for authority for a 28 foot depth in the stage instead of 22 feet.

Touching upon other needs before construction can start, Mr. Lacy asked for a drilled well to provide water for building construction.

An amended plan for fire-proofing at Dallas Borough and Shavertown frame buildings, will cost about $6,000 at Shavertown, and between $2,500 and $3,000 at Dallas, in accordance with specifications laid down by Dept. of Labor and Industry.

New Board Member
Jack Stanley, newly elected board member from Dallas Township, was welcomed to the board, having been sworn into office by notary public J. I. Alexander April 20.

Transportation
Clarence Myers expects to go out of the bus business. He will sell his equipment to Leon Emanuel, who will take over the remainder of the three year contract signed by Myers last year. Transportation this year, and will help Mr. Emanuel get started in September. Most drivers will remain the same.

Mr. Emanuel has on hand three 66 passenger buses; may purchase more.

Directors felt that the change would be made smoothly and without complications.

Mr. Emanuel was one of the contractors who bid last year on the contract awarded to Myers.

The coal contract was awarded to Back Mountain Lumber Company, an action which was held over from last month, when bids were opened.

Finances
Up to $40,000 loan from Dallas Branch, Miners National Bank, was authorized to meet current bills and salaries for May.

William Clewell presented a tentative budget for consideration, $738,651 for 1959-1960, plus capital outlay of $56,000. A budget will be adopted at the June meeting. Estimated receipts for this year will be $881,691, including State reimbursement of $473,584, and property tax of $264,633.

The salary appropriation of $438,042 includes salaries for three new teachers, one in reading development in the junior high school, the other two in guidance.

Arthur Dungey reported on tax collections. Delinquent taxes will be turned over to Don Wilkison for collection in the Borough.

Purchase of a money-counting machine for pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters was authorized at a cost of $219 for the Township building, where much small change is handled. The machine is being tested out, and proves a great labor-saver.

One Vacation Day Due
James Martin, supervising principal, stated that one day of vacation is due students in all schools except Dallas Borough, who are still making up last time by curtailment of the lunch hour from one hour to forty-five minutes. Other schools will close for May 29. Dallas Borough pupils will have classes.

The State requires 180 days. The area schedule called for 185, to allow time for unforeseen events which might close the schools, such as heavy snow storms which necessitated continuance of school for several days last June, to compensate for time lost in mid-winter.

Dallas Borough elementary school is up against a similar situation this year, because classes had to be dismissed while the boilers were being installed. State mandates must be obeyed if reimbursement is to be expected.

All nine custodians will be sent to a custodian school being held in Wyoming June 18 and 19, and Mrs. Heyward Lanco, cafeteria head,
