College Misericordia Bus A Familiar Sight

College Misericordia bus, which was purchased last year when Holiday House went into temporary occupation as a dormitory is becoming a familiar sight on Dallas streets as it transports students who are living with families in the community to the campus for meals and classes.

Wants Tips On Auction

Mrs. Frank DiMaria, Garfield, N.J. dropped in at the Dallas Post on Monday to get pointers on the Library Auction, which would help her parish to put on a similar auction in New Jersey. Mrs. DiMaria usually attends the Library Auction, but missed out on it this year. "You mean those grand auctioneers aren't professional?" she remarked. "I thought you hired them."

Mrs. Hall Will Teach Retarded

Special Class Starts Monday In Wyoming

Mrs. Calvin Hall, Shavertown, will teach retarded children at the Sixth Street School in Wyoming, starting with an enrollment of three, which will build up to sixteen as Dr. Inez Husted completes testing of students. A new room has been added to the school.

Services Today For Herman D. Monroe

Services for Herman D. Monroe, Trucksville, are scheduled for this afternoon at 2 from the Nulton Funeral Home, with burial in Beaumont Cemetery. Rev. Russell Edmondson will officiate.

Mr. Monroe, 49, died of a heart attack Sunday morning at 6 in his home on Stafford Street, Trucksville.

His son, SP/4 Richard Monroe, with the U. S. Army in Verdun, France, was informed by the Red Cross of his father's unexpected death, and arrangements made to fly him across the Atlantic. Funeral arrangements depend upon his time of arrival. He was reported on his way on Tuesday.

Mr. Monroe was employed as a truck driver with Ruggles Lumber Company for thirty years, and bowled with the Ruggles team. He was an ardent ball fan, taking in all the Westmoreland games.

He was born in Noxen, son of the late William and Amelia Decker Monroe. For the past sixteen years he lived in Trucksville.

He is survived by his widow, the former Anna Belles, of Beaumont; one son, Richard; a brother Harry, College Park, Maryland.

Crane Auction To Be Big One

Jersey Herd And Machinery To Be Sold

Dairymen and stockmen throughout the northeastern Pennsylvania area are looking forward with anticipation to the Jersey Herd Dispersal Sale to be held Friday, October 16, at Clover Leaf Farm, in Kingston Township, owned by Burdette Crane.

The herd of thirty-three animals is considered to be one of the top notch herds in the area. All except three were born on the farm.

Mr. Crane has operated the 150-acre farm since 1941 and has been seriously engaged in the dairy business since 1948.

In addition to the herd, a great variety of farm machinery will be offered for sale in what promises to be one of the biggest farm auctions held here in a number of years.

The sale will be conducted by the Danville and Horseheads, N. Y., Livestock Market with Dick Crittenden as auctioneer.

A more detailed listing of the animals and equipment will be found in The Trading Post in this week's issue.

Return To Dallas After Flying To Continent

Mr. and Mrs. Max Dreher, Park Street, have had eight weeks on the Continent, returning last Sunday after a stop in Cologne and one in Shannon. Landing in Idlewild, they flew by helicopter to Newark Airport, and finished their trip by Allegheny Airline to Avoca.

Going and returning by the Swiss Airline, they flew over to Switzerland non-stop, landing in Zurich twelve hours and forty minutes after the takeoff from Idlewild. They saw Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Italy, spending much time in Austria with relatives.

Four years ago the Dreheres flew to Europe on a vacation, and in 1951 Mrs. Dreher went by boat, alone, to see her mother, Mrs. Pauline Schreiber in Austria. Mrs. Schreiber paid a visit to Dallas in 1935, and hopes to come again for six months some time in the near future.

Stephen Sedler Released After Lingerin Illness

Stephen J. Sedler, Sr., Dallas, was buried in Chapel Lawn Cemetery Tuesday morning, following services at Williams Funeral Home and a mass of requiem at Gate of Heaven Church. Rev. Francis A. Kane officiated at the church. Rev. Richard Frank at the cemetery.

Pallbearers were Leslie Warhola, Robert Hislop, Conrad Hislop, Peter Roushey, John Monka and Floyd Ide.

Mr. Sedler, 58, suffering for the past three years with a lingering illness, died Saturday at midnight at his home on Mill Street.

Before his illness he was employed by Lacy, Atherton and Davis, architects, in processing blue-prints. In his earlier years, he served as service manager for Imperial Motors in Kingston.

He was fond of hunting and fishing, making his last trip into the woods just before onset of his long illness.

A native of Luzerne, his parents were the late John and Susan Major Sedler. Before moving to Mill Street twenty-two years ago, he lived for a time in Plains Township. He was a parishioner of Gate of Heaven.

He is survived by his widow, the former Ethel Evans of Plains; three children: Stephen, Jr., of Dallas; Mrs. Theresa Dorn, Nixon, N. J.; Paul J., Rochester, N. Y.; two brothers, Michael and Frank, Dallas Township; and a sister, Elizabeth, Philadelphia; seven grandchildren.

Predominantly Republican, Wyoming County is noting an upsurge in Democratic registrations. With 6,257 Republican and 3,358 Democratic registrations, Republicans have watched their advantage drop from 1.91 to 1 down to 1.87 to 1.

Get Big Grey Fox

Sheldon Evans and Burt Steltz got a beautiful big grey fox Saturday at Loyallville while hunting with Mr. Evans' fine fox hounds, Sam and Rock.

It was the fourth fox Shel has got this fall.

People spend daily more for their newspapers—$3.4 million—than is collected daily from all the parking meters in the county.

According to latest figures, last year's 100 top national newspaper advertisers invested over $300 million dollars.
