Commonwealth Rate Changes (Continued from Section A, Page 1)

Moreland exchanges would have the same schedule as those in other Commonwealth exchange areas. The proposed rates: Business telephones - One-party, $5.75; two-party, $5.40; four-party and multi-party, $3.75.

Present Center Moreland rates: Business telephones - One-party, $6.25; two-party, $5.50; four-party and multi-party, $3.75.

Present Center Moreland rates: Business telephones - One-party, $6.50; two-party, $5.25; four-party and multi-party, $3.50.

Manager Landis noted that the proposed changes are designed to give Dallas and Center Moreland more and better service keeping pace with the region's growth.

A good example is this: A resident on a one-party line at Holcomb's Grove would have a 25 cent per month increase in his base rate, but he would no longer have to pay the $3.00 per month line mileage charge now in effect, and his savings would be therefore $2.50 per month.

Line mileage charges are made for every quarter-mile of wire, strung from the base rate area to the telephone. Line mileage rate is fifty cents per quarter mile for a one-party telephone, thirty cents for a two-party line, twenty cents for a four-party line.

misas and the element of discrimination will persist until the last customer has been metered. But this discrimination, which is not of itself unreasonable, may be unreasonable discriminatory when a water company is not diligent in minimizing the time interval between the beginning and the completion of its metering program, with the result that over an unduly long period of time one group of customers is receiving metered service while the other group is charged on a flat-rate basis.

Phillip Richards, instructor in painting at Dallas Junior High School, has a remarkably beautiful picture in the April issue of Ford Times, its translucent sea green reflecting the subject matter of "Sea Creatures on a Montainop." Mr. Richards wrote the accompanying text:

"As Pennsylvania Route 115 winds into the Appalachian Mountains west of Saylorsburg, it will take you through a fossil bed that was at the bottom of a prehistoric ocean three hundred million years ago. The hardened layers of sandy sea-bottom are clearly visible from your car, and the first rock you pick up will be filled with perfectly formed sea fossils.

"Just how fossils from the floor of a prehistoric warm sea reached the mountaintops is explained by geologists who have deduced that an inland sea once covered the whole region from Newfoundland to the Gulf of Mexico. A great upheaval of the earth's crust then brought the ancient Appalachians into being. The best fossil bed is located on Route 115 at the top of the first hill a mile and a half west of Saylorsburg where a minor outcrop has exposed the fossil-bearing rocks.

"Among the fossils which you may pick up may be the trilobite, a tri-sectioned creature that ruled the world in the Cambrian period. It was then the most important of all living things, but became extinct long before the dinosaur began his reign. It ranges from a quarter-inch to twenty-seven inches in length, but most specimens are two or three inches long.

"You will be handling rocks from the Paleozoic Era - the oldest strata in the earth's crust from which definite organic remains have been recorded. When you break them open, you will see amazingly symmetrical impressions left by the tiny sea-stars, odd-shaped animals,

Escapes Serious Injury In Pikes Creek Crash

Mrs. H. Byron Harris, Trucksville, escaped serious injury in a collision at Pikes Creek Wednesday at 1:15 p.m. while making a left turn from Route 115 into the Lake Silkworth road near Kenneth Williams' store. A travelling salesman from Philadelphia, driving alone, coming from the direction of Williamsport, was apparently not able to avoid hitting Mrs. Harris' car.

Constable John Lukovich, Sweet Valley, alerted at Sheldon's diner, summoned Bronson's ambulance, which arrived as Mrs. Harris recovered consciousness, and assistant police chief Walbridge Leinthal of Harveys Lake drew up Mrs. Harris asked to have her husband Dr. Harris, notified. He came immediately, dismissing the ambulance, to take his wife home in his own car.

Both cars were towed to the Boston garage, Pikes Creek. The Rambler was later towed to Philadelphia. Both the Rambler and Mrs. Harris' 1960 Impala convertible were badly damaged.

son, Florence Klimeck, and Ann Weaver.

Members are asked to make reservations for the party with Mrs. William Weaver, and to bring a 25 cent white elephant.
