

Art Keefer's Name To Be Used For Tunkhannock Little League Park

Art Keefer a former resident of Dallas, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Newman, and son of Mrs. Frances Keefer, has given his name to the Little League Stadium in Tunkhannock, a fitting memorial to a man who was vitally interested in work for boys. When he died in his prime, February 4, Tunkhannock was staggered at its loss.

A unanimous vote Sunday at the annual meeting of Tunkhannock Boys Baseball Association changed the name of the community's Little League Park to Art Keefer Memorial Park, a tribute to his ceaseless endeavors in this project. It was largely his brain-child to organize the association. He was active in construction and maintenance of the park and served on various committees, coordinating the umpiring staff and promoting special events.

It was Art who requisitioned heavy equipment from the State to level the hill-top property off Route 6, and Art whose enthusiasm overcame all obstacles to founding of one of the nicest Little League parks in the area.

Art would have liked the decision to permit twelve-year-olds to play in the Squidjet League this season, at any position except pitcher.
