

Tredennick And Wife With Army In Germany

GRAFENWOHR, GERMANY (AHTNC) — Army Specialist Five, Charles N. Tredennick, son of Mrs. Helen M. Tredennick, 33 Lake St., is participating with other personnel from the 3d Armored Division in a field training exercise in Grafenwohr, Germany. The six-week exercise is scheduled to be concluded Oct. 1.

Some 15,000 troops and more than 1,000 tanks and armored personnel carriers will maneuver over the rough and hilly terrain of the training area. This exercise is typical of the constant training conducted to determine that all units in the NATO shield of defense in Europe maintain a high state of combat efficiency.

The 25-year-old soldier, whose wife, Joy, is with him in Germany, is a scout in Headquarters Company of the division's Combat Command A in Kirch Gons. He entered the Army in 1954 and arrived overseas in July 1959 on this tour of duty.

Tredennick attended Kingston Township High School and was employed by Dallas Hardware and Supply before entering the Army.

Well Known Percussionist Moving From Back Mountain To Florida

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Knecht have recently sold the home which they built three years ago on Overbrook Road, and will take their home in Orlando Beach, Florida, a move dictated by considerations of health.

Mrs. Knecht left last week by plane, and Mr. Knecht will follow by car shortly after September 1. The couple's son Allen is with the Martin Missiles Plant, in the transportation department, where air flights and trips are planned for executives and other personnel.

Mr. Knecht is the well known instrumental percussionist, who started his career with the James J. Alexander band the year Mr. Alexander retired to live at Harveys Lake.

For twenty-six years Mr. Knecht had an engagement with Comerford Theatres as a pit drummer; ten seasons with the Scranton Philharmonic under the baton of the internationally famous Dr. Frieder Weissmann; he was also with Skitch Henderson, director of the National Broadcasting Company and later with the Stegmaier Gold Medal Band, for eight years.

Mr. Knecht's composition, March of Peace, was composed first for the piano in 1915, and played at the Savoy Theatre in Wilkes-Barre. The manager, the late Fred Herman, gave it its name, at a time when the United States still hoped to stay out of European troubles. In 1954, the march was arranged for full band performance and played by the Stegmaier Gold Medal Band before an enthusiastic audience at Irem Temple.

Since that date, the march has been included in many programs, in at least fifteen concerts in the Wyoming Valley and Back Mountain, including presentations before Dallas and Westmoreland schools, and at College Misericordia.

Mr. Knecht taught percussion at St. Ann's Academy from 1924 to 1930. It was while teaching at St. Ann's that he became interested in art, the result of admiring pictures hung in the school, and for several years made good progress in landscape painting.

Mr. and Mrs. Knecht continue to think of this area as their real home, though most of their lives were spent in Wilkes-Barre. They expect to drive back to Dallas from time to time to renew friendships.

College Finds Institute For Youth Guidance

Misericordia Blazes Trail For Specialized Help In Reading Skills

An Educational and Vocational Guidance Institute for the youth of the Wyoming Valley and adjacent areas has been established in Central Wilkes-Barre by College Misericordia, according to Sister M. Celestine, president of the college.

Purpose of the Institute, she explains, is to provide specialized help to young students in making the fullest use of their ability in preparing for college and later careers.

The guidance center will be opened October 1st in the old King's College Building on Northampton street, Wilkes-Barre.

It will be directed by Joseph W. Fenstermacher, chairman of the College's Sociology Department, who has had extensive experience in establishment of such guidance centers.

The professional staff and facilities of the College's Department of Education and the student personnel services will be utilized by the Center which will have available a counseling psychologist, a guidance counselor, two reading specialists, a speech therapist and a social worker.

Sister Celestine explained that many high school students desire individual counseling and guidance beyond that which is available in the curricula of their schools. Because of this need, the Center's guidance section will offer testing, counseling, scholarship and career information material, referral to community agencies and to educational institutions. The program also will include an initial evaluative interview and planning and counseling sessions with parents.

The education section will offer two instructional reading programs plus speech therapy.

"Reading is the most important general method of learning. Thus, reading skills are essential to the learning of nearly every subject in educational process," Sister Celestine pointed out, adding that, "Reading Skill is often the key to successful high school and college performance."

Since special instruction in reading is not always available in the school system, the Center will offer a reading course for the average student who wishes to become a better reader. This course is designed to increase reading speed and comprehension, along with the development of better study habits.

A second reading program, for the student who is having difficulty in school because of a reading disability, also will be offered. Each reading program will include diagnostic testing and individual instruction plans.

Another problem which often impedes the development of otherwise able students is that of speech disability such as minor articulation disorders. Under the Center's speech program, diagnosis and corrective training is offered for the child so handicapped.

Information on registration can be secured by calling or writing to the Office of the Dean, College Misericordia, Dallas, Pa.
