FFA Band To Play At Show

The famous Pennsylvania Future Farmers of America Band will be furnishing music again at the 1961 State Farm Show.

The band of 100 pieces is scheduled for three concerts during the week, including one in the Farm Show Arena Tuesday evening, January 10, immediately before the beginning of the Folk Dance Festival and Contest. The farmboy musicians also will play in the south wing of the main Capitol Building Tuesday morning as part of the ceremonies connected with presentation of farm and home safety awards to FFA chapters, and again early Wednesday afternoon in the Forum of the State Education Building as a prelude to the business sessions of the FFA mid-winter State convention.

The FFA Band members are drawn from vocational agriculture

DOG DISTEMPER

By Dr. E. M. Gildow
Director, Friskies Research Kennels

Many years ago the treatment for distemper was almost as painful as the disease.

Often the patient was given a mixture of gunpowder and molasses, or tar was rubbed on his nose so that he'd inhale the fumes. He was at times dunked in a steaming hot bath every few hours to "sweat the poisons out."

Even worse was the early practice of bleeding...cutting the roof of the mouth, the lobes of the ears or tip of the tail to let the "bad blood" out.

Thanks to science and research, we now know a great deal more about distemper than we did even ten years ago. We know, for example, that it's an airborne, highly contagious disease caused by a virus that attacks puppies more frequently than older dogs that the germ can be picked up from streets, lamp posts and trees, as well as directly from an infected dog.

We also know that a person nursing a dog with distemper can carry the disease on his clothes and that the home of a sick dog can harbor the germ for several months.

Luckily for the dog population of today, we now have preventive inoculations and serums which, while not perfect, are so close to it that dogs which have been properly immunized seldom get the disease.

It is vitally important that every puppy be immunized, for in spite of better knowledge of the disease, there is no sure fire cure once it's been contracted. Therefore, as soon as a new puppy comes into your home, it is advisable to check with your veterinarian as to proper scheduling of the vaccination "shots."

There are several satisfactory and effective schedules for successful immunization of your dog. Follow your veterinarian's advice.

Feeding Tip: Feed a top quality dog food such as Friskies to ensure complete nutrition and abundant health. Both are essential before satisfactory immunization to distemper is started.

Belle Of The Bird-Count Ball Is A Single Baltimore Oriole

A Baltimore oriole was the Belle of the Bird-Count Ball spotted in Trucksville at the bird feeder of Robert M. Scott.

For two weeks in advance of the December 26 Audubon Bird Count, Mr. and Mrs. Scott had been enjoying its flashing wings and its bright orange coloring against the snow. Bird counters kept their fingers crossed, hoping it would still be in the vicinity, and visible, when the official count was taken. The oriole co-operated, and was listed on the official bill.

Last year, an oriole was listed from the Falls area, and one has been seen at Cornell in midwinter, in a locality where bird-watching is a community hobby. This is the first time one has visited the Back Mountain during the winter.

Edwin Johnson, field trip chairman for Back Mountain Bird Club, says the count got under way at 4 a. m. when six screech owls and nine great horned owls were noted, going about the business of nocturnal hunting for small rodents.

Fog interfered with good visibility along the Susquehanna, where water birds were listed: five Mallard ducks, 74 black ducks, four canvasbacks, 36 American mergansers. In the same area one Cooper's hawk was sighted, four marsh hawks, and one fish crow. The river afforded the only open water, all ponds and lakes in this vicinity being completely frozen over.

President Rev. George Deisher took part in the count, with Mr. Johnson, Mrs. Arnett Jones, Mrs. Roger McShea, of Dallas; Frank Jackson, Harveys Lake; John Con-

departments of high schools in all parts of the State, and although skilled musicians, are not experienced in playing together as a single band. For that reason, they will arrive in Harrisburg on Sunday, January 8, the day before the Farm Show opens, to afford an opportunity to rehearse together for the Tuesday and Wednesday programs. The band is under the direction of James Dunlop, Pennsylvania State University professor and director of Penn State's "Blue Band."

Among Farm Show crowds dressed in overcoats and mufflers, the FFA music-makers will present a distinctive performance. When appearing for performances, the band members are dressed in white, with blue official FFA caps, black shoes and black bow ties.

To keep the 100 bandsmen together as a unit until their programs are completed, the band members will be housed in the Farm Show Building on folding cots each night, and will have their meals at Camp Curtin Methodist Church, where the band also will do its rehearsing. They will be in charge of a committee of vocational agriculture supervisors under the chairmanship of T. R. Sponsler of Warren.

AND I QUOTE

"Television is a truly remarkable invention. The same set that puts your wife to sleep keeps the neighbors awake."

"There are more men than women in mental hospitals, which just goes to show who's driving who crazy."

rad, Ashley; William Evans, Forty Fort.

Temperature, say Ed, ranged from 11 to 38 degrees, winds eight miles an hour, very mild weather for the annual bird count. The goal was fifty species, but only 41 could be listed. Four varieties were seen during the week of the count, but cannot be officially submitted to the Audubon Society. They were kingfisher, grackle, barred owl, and white-winged crossbill.

These are the birds, excluding owls and birds already listed on the waterways: ruffed grouse 4; ring-neck pheasant, 7; mourning dove, 11; pileated woodpecker, 1; hairy woodpecker, 3; downy woodpecker, 32; northern horned lark, 100; blue-jay, 26; chickadee, 68; tufted titmouse, 21; white breasted nuthatch, 10; brown creeper, 6; Carolina wren, 2; robin 2; starling, 75; golden crowned kinglet, 3; English sparrow, 140; meadow lark, 4; redwing blackbird, 3; cardinal, 32; evening grosbeak, 5; purple finch, 33; pine siskin, 35; goldfinch, 44; tree sparrow, 112; slate colored junco, 58; white throated sparrow, 2; song sparrow, 27; sparrow hawk, 1; cowbird, 1.

And in a category by itself, one oriole. The bird pattern changes from year to year, with evening grosbeaks scarce up to this date, whereas three years ago flocks of 50 to 100 were common, posing a problem at bird feeders. Cardinals, rare ten years ago, are now here in numbers. Nobody spotted a red-breasted nuthatch, though they have been seen at feeders this winter.
