THE CHILD'S WORLD IS AS FAR AS SHE CAN SEE

A child's outlook upon the world comes through a child's eyes and a child's mind. Of necessity this outlook changes as he or she grows into adulthood. There are two powers, however, with which every child is endowed, these being love and faith. If retained they provide the greatest blessing life has to offer. All too often these blessings are replaced with fear and apprehension. Love and faith are the only power greater than these. Wisdom, so much to be desired, cannot take their place.

How then may we retain this spirit of love and faith, or, once we have lost it, how may it be regained? By prayer to Him who did not create within us a spirit of fear, and by holding fellowship with those who possess an abiding faith. The Church of our choice provides these contacts of prayer and association with those of strong faith, and as an institution of God it works best when many attend. Use, and seek its benefits.
