Clean-Up Week Time To Curb Fire Hazards

The Pennsylvania Rural Safety Council, in setting Spring Clean-Up Week, stressed the need for reduction of fire hazards and preparations for fighting fires in rural areas. Collections of rubbish constitutes one of the top four causes of building fires, according to Carson F. Mertz, specialist in farm and home safety education in the State Department of Public Instruction who also serves as coordinator for the Rural Safety

Council. A good spring clean-up is a necessity for a fire-safe farm. Mertz said in making the following suggestions in efforts to reduce farm building fires in Pennsylvania:

"The best way to fight fire in the farm is to prevent it from ever starting. Being prepared is a smart move.

"Make sure that your nearest fire department has a layout of your farm, the buildings and their interiors, the location of water supplies, both primary and alternate.

"See that everyone on the farm knows how to phone an alarm to the correct number.

"Have reliable, approved extinguishers placed strategically in all fire danger zones.

"Remove all dead leaves and rubbish near buildings. Clean up interiors.

"Use every precaution in the storage and handling of gasoline and kerosene around the farm.

"If you don't have it, get a well-designed, well-maintained lightning rod system. Almost one out of ten fires on farms are caused by lightning.

"Farm families should plan and practice a fire drill in the home. Figure out at least two routes to the outside from every room in the house, especially bedrooms. Allow for blocking of stairways of halls by fire."

Route Numbers On Many Roads To Be Changed

Changes Will Be Made On New State Maps Issued Soon

The Department of Highways is making several changes in traffic route numbers in northeastern Pennsylvania this spring. The changes, along with those in other parts of the state, will be reflected in the new official road map which will be available late in May.

Persons who plan to travel this summer in areas which they are not familiar and who plan to use route number as guides are advised by the Department of highways to obtain a copy of the new map and compare it with an old map of the area where they expect to travel. This is advisable because the new signs will be erected as they are available and several months will elapse before the conversion is completed, hence some roads will have new signs during the main travel season and some will not.

The Penn-Can Highway (Interstate Route 81) will be opened to traffic this year from Scranton to the New York state line south of Binghamton and in connection with this project the Department will establish five new route numbers so that each interchange of the expressway will be intersected by a numbered route.

The new routes intersecting the Penn-Can will be: State Route 848, Susquehanna County -- New Milford to Gibson. State Route 374, Susquehanna County -- Royal to Glenwood. State Route 438, Lackawanna County -- LaPlume through Scott to Montdale.

State Route 524, Lackawanna County -- From State Route 407 north of Waverly easterly to Scott, eliminating an east-west portion of old Route 347.

State Route 632, Lackawanna County -- From U.S. 6 and 11 at Dalton to a junction with Route 247 south of Montdale.

A sixth route change in the Lackawanna-Susquehanna area will be the extension of State Route 407 north from Fleetville to new Route 374 (Royal-Glenwood road).

Other route changes in northeastern Pennsylvania are the follows: 1. Old State Route 70 will be changed to Route 171 from Carbondale to U.S. 11 at Great Bend. Route 70 north of Hallstead will be eliminated. The reason for the change: Route 70 number would conflict with Interstate Route 70 numbering.

2. State Route 115 from junction with U.S. 309 outside of Wilkes-Barre to Dallas will be eliminated to eliminate dual numbering on the same piece of road.

3. State Route 115 changed to Route 118 from Dallas westerly to Reason for the change: to conform to the general policy of numbering east-west route with even numbers and north-south routes with odd numbers.

4. State Route 191 from Stockertown (north of Easton) to Hancock, N.Y. because of a conflict with Interstate superhighway numbering in Erie County.

5. Route 90 from Easton to Stockertown will be eliminated to eliminate dual numbering on the same piece of highway. (The number Route 115 will remain.)

6. The designation State Route 12 will be eliminated from the state road system. (Much of it is numbered Route 115.)

7. Old Route 12 south from Stockertown through Bethlehem to U.S. 309 at Center Valley will become part of New Route 191.

8. State Route 54 between Maudsley in Montour County and Ashland will become part of State Route 45 was divided into three parts in the state. The route changes will make of a connected route between Easton and a point on U.S. 22 east of Altoona. Route 54 from Maudsley north to U.S. 15 south of Williamsport will not be changed.

Behind the changes in route numbering, which may seem confusing in the beginning, are several goals: 1. To simplify the numbered route system by eliminating dual numbering on the same piece of road. 2. To integrate and rationalize the numbered route system by ex-

They Keep On Going

Pennsylvania Medical Society says: A human can swallow unusual and apparently dangerous objects and live to tell the tale.

Nails, screws, pins, needles, glass and fruit pits are found in the gastrointestinal tract and it is astonishing how few of these cases result in death.

There seems to be a natural protective tendency to push pointed objects along the intestinal tract with the point reversed from the peristaltic movement of the bowels.

A notable case describes a psychotic patient with a stomach half filled with pins, and with hundreds of pins throughout the intestinal passage.

All of the pins passed through the intestines in two and a half months with no apparent ill effect on the patient.
