

Trucksville Methodist Church Has Long and Interesting History

Another milestone in the history of Trucksville Methodist Church, more familiarly known as the White Church on the Hill, will be passed Sunday afternoon at 4 when the new educational building will be consecrated.

The picture shows successive stages of the church from its modest beginnings in 1844, to the present beautiful structure, built after the second edifice was destroyed by fire in 1910.

Methodism began back of the mountain in 1796, and was nurtured by the efforts of devoted men and women, who in spite of time and effort required to establish homes and businesses, still found the necessary time for their church.

In 1844 the Trucksville Church was incorporated, and land was purchased upon which the first church building was erected. First improvements and alterations were made during the decade 1880-1890, but in 1905-1907 the old church was radically changed in its appearance and accommodations.

The year 1910 witnessed the complete destruction of the reconstructed church by fire, and the following year, on January 26, 1911, the present church was dedicated.

It was the gift of Mrs. Olivia Hillard Conyngham and her two sons, William H. and John N. Conyngham. In 1931-1932 a further addition was constructed at the rear of the church building, and a new organ was installed, the gift of William H. Conyngham. The church was rededicated and the organ dedicated on November 13, 1932.

During the decade following World War II, an increase in the population of Trucksville inevitably brought an increase in the church membership.

On May 13, 1957, it became known that land could be purchased adjacent to the church, and a planning committee was formed to see what should be done. In November, 1957, a building committee was organized, with Dr. Richard E. Crompton, as chairman, and a financial crusade was authorized by the official board.

The new structure has been built with an eye to future expansion, having sufficient space surrounding it for additional buildings if and when the need arises.

school attendance, and the limited space available soon became hopelessly inadequate. Considerable thought was given to various plans of expansion, but with the small areas available due to the church being surrounded on three sides by the cemetery, there was no simple solution.

Philip Anderson's Death Shock To Community

The death of Philip H. Anderson, 52, of White Plains, was a shock to older residents of Dallas, who remembered that his father, Harry Anderson, was one of the former owner-editors of the Dallas Post, when the printing plant was in the little building back of Paul Shaver's house on Huntsville Road.

Philip was born here and spent his early years in the community. He returned to it June 10, when he was buried in Trucksville.

He had lived at White Plains only three years, after a long residence in Baltimore. He was associated as accountant with Continental Can Co. or 22 years.

Mr. Anderson was a member of George M. Dallas Lodge F & A.M. His mother, Mrs. Harry Anderson, and two sisters, Miss Helen Anderson and Mrs. Kenneth King, live in Dallas.

His wife, the former Elma Robbins, was a Trucksville girl.

He leaves also a daughter, Gretchen E. Anderson, a legal secretary, graduate of the Katherine School, and a son James, at Randolph Macon.

Huntsville Christian Women Outlined Plans

The regular meeting of Christian Woman's Fellowship, Huntsville Christian Church, was held last Tuesday when plans for next year were made: A mission goal of five hundred dollars was adopted; good used clothing for the needy families all over the world was asked for by the Church World Service; each woman of the church was requested to use her individual talent to raise money to reach the missionary goal; Mrs. C. H. Frick reported that she had contacted several prospective members; July picnic is set for the A. N. Garinger home.

Here's good savings news from WYOMING NATIONAL BANK Every Day Interest builds savings faster! "Every Day Interest" means your savings earn interest every day—from day of deposit to day of withdrawal. IT ALL ADDS UP... there's no loss of interest on money withdrawn during quarter. Interest is earned on every dollar from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal... on savings account balances for $5 to $100,000... provided the account remains open to the end of the quarter, interest, at the annual rate of 3%, is compounded and credited every three months. 33 grace days in each quarter. Money you deposit during the first ten days of each month earns interest from the first day of the month plus a three-day grace period for withdrawals at the end of each quarter. OTHER SAVINGS ACCOUNTS With many other savings accounts, you lose interest on money you withdraw in the middle of an interest period. In fact, you lose all the interest it has earned since the beginning of the period. WYOMING NATIONAL SAVINGS ACCOUNTS At Wyoming National, as long as there's a balance in your account at the end of the period, you get full interest on your savings every day... yes, right from the day of deposit to day of withdrawal.
