

Free Methodist Camp Had Banner Attendance During Its Season

Free Methodist Camp Meeting, according to Rev. Albert Reining, drew 165 regular campers this year, and on weekends, 600 worshippers. The camp budget for the ten days amounted to nearly $3,000.

Wesley Cooper will replace the late Rev. A. A. Mahler as resident caretaker of the grounds. With an investment worth $175,000 in buildings and equipment, camp grounds cannot be left unguarded. A master switch turns on a full complement of flood lights in case of an emergency, throwing into sharp relief the thirty-five cabins, the six main buildings, and the various general purpose facilities.

Wyoming Nation Of Indian Guides Plan Clearing Project And Outing

Tom Heslop, Chief Running Creek of the Wyoming Nation of the Back Mountain YMCA Indian Guides, has announced that the next Nation outing will be held Sunday, July 16 at the Hellersperk property near Shrine Acres.

Following a cookout, when the braves will cook their evening meal, a short council meeting will be held. All braves will then participate in various games and a camp fire. The evening's activities will be concluded with a demonstration of magic fire making by Chief Running Horse Young of the Delaware Tribe.

Oliver Whitesell Was One Of The Old-Timers

With the death June 30 of Oliver I. Whitesell, 88, at his home in Lehman, Back Mountain has lost another of its old-timers. The lifelong area resident was buried in Lehman cemetery, Rev. Frank K. Abbott and Rev. Norman Tiffany, former and present pastors of the Lehman Methodist Church, conducting services July 3 from the Bronson Funeral Home.

Mr. Whitesell was born in Lake Township, son of Edwin and Sophronia Ide Whitesell. For twenty years he operated a farm in that area, moving to Lehman thirty-four years ago. He belonged to Lehman Methodist Church, its Men's Bible Class, and its board of trustees.

For many years he served as custodian of the Lehman school, and drove a school bus. He belonged to the Jr. O.U.A.M. Sweet Valley Council, as a master carpenter. He and his wife, the former Grace Ruggles, observed their sixtieth wedding anniversary last October. The elderly couple were joined five years ago at their home in Lehman by a daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Tough, an arrangement which permitted them, in spite of advancing years, to continue living in their own familiar surroundings.
