

Home-Making Room At Junior High Moves Up Out Of The Basement

At Dallas Junior High School the Home-Making room has come up out of the basement and is now located on the first floor, to the right of the main entrance.

The most modern of equipment has been installed, with the main color scheme of robin's egg blue, highlighting kitchen islands. It is a room to inspire any Junior Miss to rolling out flaky pie-crusts or learning to adapt a pattern to a twenty-two inch waist and a knee-length skirt.

Downstairs is the former Home-Making room, cabinets and kitchen equipment has been left in place for use of the teachers, refrigerator and stove handily placed for a quick snack.

Another complete kitchen unit remains in the cafeteria section, for use of organizations such as the PTA. Until it has been demonstrated that a central kitchen at the new high school will be completely satisfactory for distribution of food to all schools, it is felt the part of wisdom to keep a complete emergency kitchen in operating condition.

When classroom space became a problem some time ago, one end of the cafeteria was partitioned off to provide space for an extra classroom. With remodeling of the building to accommodate junior high school students only, this partition has been removed, and the cafeteria is once more available for its entire length, with an exit door and an entrance, to eliminate traffic jams.

The principal's office has been enlarged to give John Rosser much needed space.

On the second floor, the art room has been fitted with a sink for washing of brushes, and for convenience of students studying water color painting.

GOING FISHIN'?

The hot, sticky weather of "Dog Days" plagued fishing generally although cooler upstate counties continue to report good action. Musky specialists find Erie area still producing. Lower Susquehanna, cloudy in some sections, offered better than average bass, walleye, catfish, carp, catches. Field men continue to report plenty of trout throughout state streams, little competition. Most anglers concentrating on evening fishing during typical muggy August days; more of same predicted for week end.

Northeast Regional Fish Warden Supervisor H. Clair Fleeger declared streams low and clear, water temps 62 - 78 degrees. N. Branch Susquehanna (Bradford), Chemung above normal, slightly cloudy. Susquehanna (Susquehanna) normal but muddy. Some lakes reported

Watkins Asks Court To Set Aside Ordinance

Constitutionality of a Dallas Borough ordinance prohibiting the parking of any trailer on any tract of land owned by any person within the municipality was attacked last Tuesday by Ernest E. Watkins, Machell Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins are owners of property with a frontage of 318 feet on Machell Avenue and a depth of more than 600 feet improved with a dwelling. According to their petition, they have made arrangements for purchase of a mobile home at a price of $5,500 to $6,500 with the intention of placing it at the rear of their home about 350 feet from Machell Avenue, on a permanent foundation with patio and aluminum awnings and equipped with electric and water service, septic tank for waste and oil heat for year around occupancy.

Since making arrangements for purchase and construction of the unit, Mr. Watkins learned of the existence of the ordinance passed December 1, 1959. He contends that the ordinance is unconstitutional, an unreasonable and discriminatory invasion of property rights and personal liberty. The court was asked to enter a declaratory judgment and decree constraining the rights of petitioners under the ordinance in the light of the U. S. and Pennsylvania Constitutions and under the law and to find the ordinance is unconstitutional, invalid and unenforceable and to permanently enjoin its enforcement. Petition was filed by Attorney Albert H. Aston.

blooming but Lake Wallenpaupack continued with fine catches rainbows; walleye on nitecrawlers. Chapman Lake good pickerel spot; big crappies at Lake Jean on worms. Walleye good bet at Sylvan Lake, nitecrawlers bounced on bottom.

Northcentral Regional Fish Warden Supervisor John Buck found streams normal, clear. Field men report trout anglers taking trout on crickets, grasshoppers, dry flies (especially Cahills, Royal Woulff). Two legal-size muskies 30 and 32 inches taken in Hills Creek Dam (Tioga) and Bald Eagle Creek at Flemington. Bass willing in Pine, Loysock Creeks, also in Driftwood Branch of Sinnemahoning.

Extended Stream Forecast (O. D. White, Chief Hydrologist, Federal-State Flood Forecasting Service Department of Forests and Waters and Weather Bureau). All streams have experienced falling stages for the past few days. This trend will continue over the week-end. Streams along the main Susquehanna and Juniata Rivers are near normal levels. The West Branch and its tributaries are slightly above normal. The general weather-outlook for the week end calls for hot, hot, humid weather with a chance of scattered thunder storms developing in late afternoon or evening.
