Hunting season is just around the corner. But it's a sad time for the man who finds himself with a gunshy dog. All the experts who have handled such dogs have come up with one suggestion that seems to work - and prove the way to a gun-shy pup is through his stomach. Blow up a paper bag or balloon and break it near the dog, feed him immediately after the noise is made. Repeatedly making noise and feeding the dog can make the hungry pup - and pups are almost always hungry - forget about the noise until he's ready to take to the field under gunfire. It takes patience on your part but you'll find it worth the effort when you're out hunting over what was a gun-shy pup destined for failure. Carrying a cleaning rod afield can be a bit of a problem. Here's a way to carry a "rod" that is inexpensive and effective. Flexible cable, such as from your car's speedometer, with pipe cleaners wrapped around it, plus a little lighter fluid, makes a first-rate cleaning rod. Easy
