

Educators Agree College Entrance Hinges On Grades

Three R's Remain Bony Framework Of Higher Learning

Findings of the panel on how to get into college and how to stay there, staged last Wednesday night at Dallas High School by Citizens Committee for Better Schools, was no surprise to local educators.

Concurring that it takes good grades in high school to gain admission to any college of standing, were Dr. Eugene S. Farley, president of Wilkes College; Robert G. Bernreuter, special assistant to the President of Pennsylvania State University for student affairs; and John A. Hoch, dean of instruction at Bloomsburg State College.

The criterion is marks, marks, marks, agreed all three members of the panel. A student who is in the upper fifth of his class will get into college. Mathematics, agreed the panel, is of tremendous importance. English is the basis of any kind of communication. Without good grounding in the use of English, a student is handicapped from the start.

A student graduating from a good high school, where a high percentage of seniors expect to enter college, is on a favored list from the start, said Dr. Bernreuter. It is assumed that he can handle college work. Extracurricular achievement, continued Dr. Bernreuter, cuts no ice. It is studies that count. A student who wasted his time in high school will tend to waste it in college. Recommendation of the high school principal carries great weight.

Dr. Farley advised application to a number of colleges of varying requirements. Any college, he said, must be selective in this age. Only 30 to 40% of applicants to Wilkes are accepted. Some students, it is true, he said, bloom late. A boy who finishes high school, goes into the service, marries and fathers a child, is in no position to waste education. Enrolled at college, he will buckle down and work, even though his high school record might have excluded him when he first graduated.

The function of a college such as Bloomsburg State College, said Mr. Hoch, is to provide teachers for Pennsylvania schools. An average of 35% of applicants is accepted. Recommendation of the high school principal or guidance counselor is vital. And in a teachers' college, physical fitness is required. Enrolled in 14 State Teachers' Colleges this year are 25,000 students.

To the question, "What chance has a student from the lower half of the class to get into college," Dr. Farley pointed out that one college in Iowa has established a reputation for admission of students refused elsewhere.

Dr. Farley hammered home the point that reading is of paramount importance in order to understand high school or college work. One good theme a week should, he said, be required.

Transfer students? If a student is doing good work, he will be acceptable. Problem children? Try a church school.

Genius in one direction, poor in other subjects? If he's superior in one subject, he can apply that fervor to all subjects.

What about junior colleges? They are in the main dedicated to terminal courses for which little credit could be given in a four-year college.

Why is it that the man who knows how to do everything never does?

Ten Directors Seek Election

board Resurfacing Company of Bangor, takes him into the finest schools of the State, is presented 'resident of Lehman Board. He has been a member of the Board for six years and serves on the Education, Textbook and Public Relations Committees. He has been a resident of the area most of his life. Although he narrowly defeated Niezgod for the Republican nomination in the Primaries-losing his own district, he is a strong contender and no one can deny his value on the Board.

Noxen Township
Out in Noxen where voters appreciate the importance of good schools and where property owners pay taxes on recently reassessed properties, the terms of J. Franklin Patton and Leslie Kocher are expiring. They will be opposed by Roy Dendler and Calvin Strohl, the latter active in American Legion and community affairs.

Patton has served on the Noxen Board during all the storm and stress of the past twelve years when Noxen has virtually lifted its educational standards by its own bootstraps. He is employed by Armour Leather Company, has children in school and his family has been identified with Noxen for generations.

Leslie Kocher, another employee of Armour Leather Company, has been a member of the Noxen Board for ten years. He has children in school and has lived in the area most of his life. He serves on the Finance and School Policies Committees.

Ross Township
Ross Township is casual about its politics except when there is a local feud and then it can get rough. But this year no one has got excited about the cost of the new school and everybody is taking progress in stride.

The terms of Andrew Adams, an independent merchant, and Alfred Bronson, funeral director, expire. Bronson is retiring.

Adams is the only Democrat on the Board and he will have as his running mate Chester Culver, a State Highway Department employee. They will be opposed by Cletus Holcomb, Jr., and Harry Fisk, Sr. Adams has been a member of the Board for six years, is active in civic affairs and is well known throughout the area where he has lived most of his life. He serves on the Board's Public Relations and School Projects Committee.

Six years ago he attained a position on the Board because of a community feud which split Republican ranks giving him a victory which Democrats seldom enjoy in Ross Township. This year he may not be so fortunate in which case the Board would lose a capable member.

Democratic Rally At Harveys Lake
Democratic Workers have completed plans for a Rally to be held Saturday at 8 at Wat-a-hun-nu Park, Sandy Beach.

Representative William B. Curwood will be Master of Ceremonies. Mamie Turmanski and Ethel Matthis will represent the Division of Women's Democratic Federated Clubs.

The women of the three Democratic Clubs will have charge of refreshments headed by Arlene Hoover, Virginia Sorber and Martha Hoover along with the men's division of Joseph Schappert, Perry Hoover, Joseph Pancizko, John Honeywell, Clarence Grey and John Edwards.

Decorating Committee: Eleanor Wesoloski, John Stolarick, John Milbrodt, Elsie Pancizko, Dick Weaver.

Tables, Frances Yankowski, Frances Desiderio, Hall arrangement Helen Sgarlat, Joseph Zosh, Arthur Darnell, Claude Minor and Clarence Grey. Parking John Pancizko, Clifford Crispell and Edward Wesloski.

Entertainment Mildred Darnell, Lorraine Grey, Publicity, Margaret Grey, Arthur Darnell. Music for dancing will be furnished by Hudak Orchestra.

Candidates will be on hand to greet the voters. Refreshments will be served and an invitation is extended to all.

Two Townships Unite To Form A New Ambulance Association

On Thursday night a week ago a second meeting of interested residents of Northmoreland and Franklin Townships was held to organize an Ambulance Association at the former Centermoreland school house. Don Roberts acted as temporary chairman.

It was moved to elect this first slate of officers to run until the first week in May of next year: President, Rev. J. Edwin Lintner; vice president, Henry Hess; secretary, Mrs. William D. James; treasurer, L. Stanley Jones.

Six directors were elected, three from each of the townships to form with the officers a Board of Directors: From Franklin township Malcolm Baird, Harold Davenport, Mrs. Marie Duffy; Northmoreland township Carl Bestedder, George Mata-savage, William Story.

It will be the duty of this Board to select committees as they see the need. There will have to be found suitable housing for the ambulance, preferably in Centermoreland which constitutes the larger population concentration. A campaign for funds will have to be organized.

There are approximately four hundred families in both townships to be cultivated. It remains to be definitely decided whether to purchase the Dallas ambulance or try for a later model although the consensus seemed to be in favor of making the first ambulance the one offered by Dallas.

As an illustration of the splendid spirit evidenced in this initial procedure it was told that one man has offered to overhaul this first ambulance free of labor charges and to man the ambulance if called. (It was understood that it will take three to take out the ambulance each time.) There was some interest also in the suggestion that in the day time when men might be scarce women could be called to help "man" the ambulance. One woman present had previously had some experience in this service elsewhere.

There seems no doubt that the people of these two communities will respond to appeals for support in this necessary project. Gratitude was expressed for Don Bulford coming over from Dallas to answer questions of the how of ambulance service. Following are the names of those present: Byron Kester, L. Stanley Jones, James Kerr, William P. Perigo, Mrs. William James, Mrs. Dan Dymond, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davenport, John Zarno, William H. Carey, Don Roberts, D. S. Bulford, Edward Dorrance, J. Chester Hartman, Walter Rezykowski, Marie L. Duffy, Nelson J. Dymond, Alex Matukitis, Claude Fuller, Jr., Albert Albowicz, J. Edwin Lintner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Baird, Frank Zannoch, Robert N. Jones.

Similar lay-offs in other company plants in Williamsport and West Virginia, were in effect earlier this summer because of a shortage in demand for leather, but now these workers have been recalled.

Because of the nature of the tanning industry, workers must be laid off in sequence, first those who process the green hides and then on through the plant as the hides go through the beam house and yards to the rolling machines and finished product.

Workers first laid off at Noxen were in the receiving end, and the lay-off is now continuing to other departments. The first to be recalled will be those first laid off.

Most of the 108 employees of the Noxen plant are over fifty years of age and any thought of closing would be a real tragedy for the community.

Deny Thought Of Closing Noxen Tannery

Noxen Local Fur & Leather Workers will begin negotiations on a new three-year contract Monday with Armour Leather Company giving credence to the statement of P. P. Yallitz, superintendent, that the company has no intention of closing its big Noxen Plant.

Curtailed of operation at the Armour Leather Company tannery at Noxen, has resulted in the laying off of some 40 of the employees of the firm. Remaining 60 employees will be laid off temporarily, in stages, between now and the end of the month, it became known yesterday.

P. P. Yallitz, superintendent, denied reports that the tannery will be closed permanently. "There is no basis for the rumors that the plant is closing," Yallitz declared. "No preparations are being made to close it and I have no information that it will be closed. We are just at a slow point in the industry, not uncommon, but this one has lasted longer than usual, resulting in the layoffs. It is possible that some of those first laid off will be called back to work by the time the last of the present group is laid."

The tannery, an economic mainstay of the Noxen area, has been located there since about 1890, Yallitz said. The plant is known as Armour Leather Company and is owned by Armour and Company. The reason given for the slack period is the fact that the firm is not soaking any hides at the present time due to a decline in the demand for leather goods.

Richards And Hudak Top Township Contests

It couldn't happen to two better fellows, but the most interesting contest in Dallas Township on Election Day will be between Republican Daniel Richards and Democrat Tony Hudak for the office of Tax Collector.

Running along with them will be Fred Lamoreaux, Republican incumbent, and Frank Wisniewski, Democratic contender for Supervisor.

Frank Wagner Sr., Republican, and Walter Gosart, Democrat are paired off for Constable.

It has been a long time since a Democrat won in Dallas Township but Richards and Hudak, long time residents are doing their best to make the election exciting.

If At First You Don't Succeed, Just Keep At It

After hunting for several years with bow and arrows for a deer, George Steltz, Jr., finally had his dream come true obtaining a nice spike buck during the last hour of the last day of the season.

George had previously killed many deer with a rifle, but never had any luck with arrows. Each season would slip by without success, but now he says "It never pays to give up."

Since there is lots of good feed for the deer this year George's deer was especially nice with streaks of fat from head to tail and this one seemed just a little better than the bucks he has killed with a rifle.

The man was so interested in his wife's happiness that he hired a private detective to check into the reasons for it.
