

First Nine Months Are Busy For SPCA

much second hand stuff, the ambulance had to pick it up—and they rode back to the shop with it. There was some question about there being room enough in the front seat. When I left them I fully expected they would ride in the back and couldn't help laughing when I pictured them being let out of the animal truck during the rush hour on Main Street.

Regular workers who put in busy hours at the Thrift Shop are Mrs. Thomas Adams, Mrs. William Robinson, Miss Naomi Bowkley, Miss Modesta Ximena, Mrs. Thomas Black, Mrs. Clara Phillips, Mrs. Winifred Stocks, Mrs. Helen Page, Mrs.

Jane Miller, Miss Edna Smith, Mrs. Richard Roberts, Mrs. William Meneely, Mrs. Beulah Bailey, Mrs. Ralph Paul, Mrs. Edgar Coon and Mrs. Haerter. Substitutes are Mrs. William Ramsay, Mrs. Edwin Hogg, Mrs. T. J. Kaye, Mrs. Mary Oshinski, and Mrs. William Schiener.

Without these conscientious animal lovers, the shelter could not survive. The Board of Directors and the staff and all the members owe them a vote of thanks for bringing a steady income to the shelter.

Anyone interested in working, or anyone who knows of a person who might like to work as a volunteer at the Thrift Shop would help out the S.P.C.A. by calling Mrs. Robert Haerter, VA 3-7246.

Items at Thrift Shop Are Varied Many lovely antiques are sold by the Thrift Shop and new merchandise as well. The demand for knick-knacks and paperbacks, second hand clothes, and housewares is staggering. The clientele, and there are many steady customers, is growing bigger and bigger, which creates the need for more and more stock. The shop's fame has spread as far as Shickshinny and Tunkhannock.

Always remember the Thrift Shop when you are about to throw something away. Remember, your junk may become someone's bargain.

Mrs. Haerter says: "Please don't forget all the hungry dog barks around town." She's always "demanding," bless her heart!

The Thrift Shop is located at 105 North Main Street, Wilkes-Barre, and it is most attractive. Do come and see it, do buy your pet supplies there, and do bring in any unwanted items.

Miss Ruth Jones and Staff Busy When you visit the shelter you will be impressed by the cleanliness of it, and the well being of the animals, but above all the constant pressure of work connected with running an animal shelter.

You will also be impressed with the looks of the shelter, now enhanced by landscape gardening donated by Miss Annette Evans. I do hope someone will give a statue for the cemetery.

Christmas Will Be On Us Before We Know It

If our members or friends are planning to obtain a pet for Christmas, Miss Jones urges that they introduce it into their homes at least ten days in advance so that the pet may adapt itself before the holiday excitement begins.

Operating A Year And A Half It is amazing that as many animals per month are being received now as when the shelter started. One would think the number would lessen by the time the shelter had operated a year and a half, but such is not the case. In that year and a half 12,234 animals have been received. That is quite a record and certainly shows the great need for humane service that never had been filled adequately in Wyoming Valley. I know we are all proud to be a part of such a worthwhile organization.

Long may the many tails in our shelter wave!

Back Mountain Police Association Meets At Orange Hall

No wonder some even said, "Let's put what's left in the freezer and have our next meeting right here!" Which meant that the Orange W.S.C.S. served so bountifully that the cops wanted to sit right there and keep on eating into next month's meeting.

Turkey and fixings, pie, sweet cider, and an apple for your pocket. Thanksgiving in advance! Not only that, but because it was Friday the ladies thoughtfully provided fish for those who wanted it.

President Byron Kester, who provided the feast as host, presided and introduced the Rev. Charles Gilbert who offered the invocation. Tommy Roth and Charles Smith kept the crowd happy with guitars and vocal music.

John Loftus, safety officer of the State Police, was introduced. With colored slides showing tragic smash-ups. Officer Loftus gave the gory story behind many of these wrecks. The whole lecture was beamed toward reckless youth and their parents who fail to restrain them from
