Something's Cooking, It Will Be An Auction

The old-hand-fired coal stove looks cozy enough in this picture but members of Lehman L.O.O.F. have decided they want a new modern heating system for their Lodge Hall.

In order to raise funds the group will conduct an auction at Lehman Hall Saturday, November 25, starting promptly at 1:30 p.m. and continuing through the afternoon and evening.

Joe Ellsworth, Lanceford Sutton, Raymond Searfoss, Harry Howell, Glenn Johnson, Lewis V. Ide, and Alan S. Major, Noble Grand.

Members of the Lodge will call to pick up articles for auction upon request, or items may be brought to Wes Moore's store or Alan Major's home.

Myron Baker, auctioneer, lists some of the goods to go over the block as, a fine selection of used gas and electric appliances; refrigerators, stoves, washers; buckets-a-day, furniture, dishes, antiques, farm produce, plumbing supplies used rugs, shrubbery, sporting goods including skis and ski boots, skates, sleds; odds and ends.

Refreshments will include French fries, hot dogs and sauerkraut, home-made pie, beverages.

There will also be a sale of home baked goods.

Noxen Tannery To Close Shortly

The founder was followed by his son and two grandsons in the management of the thriving industry which grew to become one of the finest tanneries for quality in the east, but the independent tanner was faced with stiff competition for hides and sales outlets. For many years most of the hides tanned at Noxen came from South America.

About 1914 Mr. Mosser sold the plant to the Armour Leather Company and returned with his family to Allentown. For many years the plant continued to operate under the proud name of G. K. Mosser Tanning Company.

Closing of the Noxen plant is reminiscent of the many tannery closings over the years. Tanneries at Kunkle and Jamison City closed with the disappearance of the lumber industry. The I.X.L. Tannery at Tunkhannock closed more than

Natona Increases Per Capita Giving To 1961 United Fund

Employees and executives of Natona Mills are proud of the increased per capita record of giving made in the United Fund campaign just closed.

With Betsy Blackman, secretary to plant manager Charles Gardner, as chairman, employees raised $3,169. This is $122, better than last year and a considerable increase in per capita giving since there are some fewer employees.

Last year employees gave $3047 and year before last (1959) gave $2,788.

Holiday Starts

Thanksgiving holiday starts Wednesday afternoon, school starts again on Monday at the regular time.
