

Charles Mayer Loved All Growing Things

Charles C. Mayer, who had made of gardening a fine art for many years, would have considered the gentle rain on Tuesday as a benediction, relieving the thirsty earth after a season of drought. Rain fell as services were conducted from the Bronson Funeral Home, and rain fell as he was being buried in Wardman Cemetery.

Mr. Mayer, 72, died at his home on Lake Street Saturday morning after a long illness. He had made of his grounds a beauty spot of living green, lavishing the same love of growing things upon it that had insured him an eighteen year post as gardener for the late Judge Andrew Hourigan. Love of the soil was the priceless ingredient.

He was born in Lake Township, son of the late David and Albertina Ell Mayer. Since 1920 he had lived at the home on Lake Street. After leaving Judge Hourigan's employ when the estate at Harveys Lake passed into other hands, Mr. Mayer worked for nine years at the Commonwealth Telephone Company, retiring a year ago. He belonged to the Junior O.U.A.M. in his youth he played baseball, and remained a faithful baseball fan.

He leaves his widow, the former Letha Adelman; a son Grayden, a well-known artist and teacher of painting, specializing in water color; two grandchildren, Eric and Todd Mayer, Dallas; a brother Adolf, Philadelphia.

Rev. Russell Lawry officiated. Pallbearers were Benjamin Rood, Elmer Hoover, Thomas Traver, Ralph Hallock, Robert VanHorn, and John Dungey.

SWEET PEACE

Submitted by Robert Hoover

When language and disease invade—this trembling house of clay, 'Tis sweet to look beyond this cage—and long to fly away.

Sweet to look inward and attain—the whispers of His love, Sweet to look outward to the place—where Jesus pleads above.

Sweet to look back and see my name—in life's fair book set down, Sweet to look forward and behold—Eternal Joys my own.

Sweet to reflect how Grace Divine—my sins on Jesus lay, Sweet to remember that His blood—my debt of suffering paid.

Sweet on His Righteousness to stand—which saves from Second Death, Sweet to remember that His blood—my debt of suffering paid.

Sweet on His Covenant of Grace—for all things to depend, Sweet to lie peaceful in His hand—and know no will but His,

Sweet to rejoice in lively hope—that when my chance shall come, Angels shall hover around my bed—and waft my spirit Home.

Then to my dis-imprisoned soul—behold Him and Adore, Be with His likeness satisfied—and grieve in sin no more.

These eyes shall see Him in that day—the God who died for me, And all my rising bones shall say—Lord, who is like to Thee?

If such the views that Grace unfold—weak as they are here below, What rapture must the Church above—in Jesus presence know?

If such the sweetness of the stream—what must the fountain be, Where Saints and Angels draw their bliss—mediate from Thee?

Oh may the unctious of these truths—forever with me stay, Till from this sinful cage dismissed—my spirit flies away.

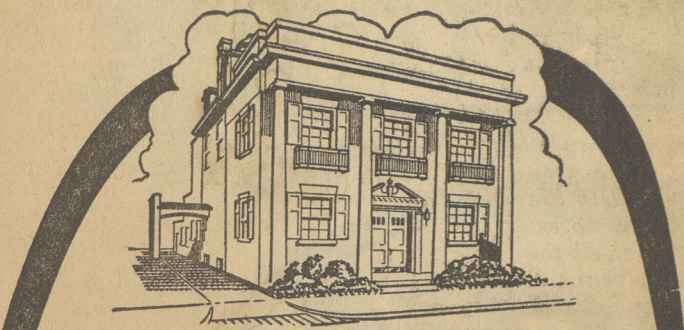

Mooretown Church To Honor New Pastor
