Homemakers Holiday Invites You To Open House Tuesday Morning

Back Mountain Homemakers Holiday midwinter session, due to start Tuesday morning with an early coffee hour at 9:30 followed by registration at the Shavertown YMCA building, is offering a wide variety of interesting courses this term. To make it easier for young married women with small children to spend a morning a week taking interesting instruction, the Holiday is offering to take care of the children for a nominal fee every Tuesday morning from 9:30 to noon, while mothers enjoy their courses with a mind at rest. The charge is perfectly ridiculous, and it costs no more for three children than for one . . . an utter bargain.
 The Open House will get off to a rousing start with a cake-cutting demonstration, says Mrs. John Vivian, chairman. Regular courses start at 10 a.m. the following week, Tuesday February 6.
 Guaranteed to attract a good registration is the School of Charm, for which Mrs. Jones Evans will be coordinator. How to walk, how to sit on a platform, how to dress, how to apply make-up correctly, will be demonstrated by local women who know the answers.

 Millinery will again be taught by Mrs. George Thomas, who will show the latest fabrics, trimmings and shapes from New York.
 Bridge will be taught by Marion Walza, and cosmetics by Mrs. Arthur Hontz.
 To keep in shape, there will be Slimnastics, golf and bowling, all aimed at trimming down body measurements while providing extremely healthful exercise and a barrel of fun.
 Mrs. George Montgomery promises eight weeks of indoor golf foundation practice, followed by another eight weeks of outdoor golf in the spring.
 Olive Reid will teach Slimnastics. Mrs. Vivian will again teach art. A canning class is offered for the first time in several seasons. It is always popular.
