Receives Award From Company President

Peter P. Kaye, right, 76 Midland Drive, Dallas, a New York Life Insurance Company representative for the past two and a half years, is shown at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Washington, D. C., where he was honored by Clarence J. Myers, chairman and president of the company.

Mr. Kaye's outstanding record qualified him in the President's trophy campaign which helped New York Life to sell more individual life insurance in 1961 than ever before in its 117 year history.

The educational conference was attended by top company executives and representatives from Maine to Florida. "But", said Mr. Kaye on his return to Dallas, "the Virginians couldn't get there because of the heavy snow. There was also plenty of it in Washington."

Mr. Kaye is enthusiastic about his company: "New York Life's assets of over seven billion dollars, are invested in bonds, mortgages, preferred and common stocks of public utilities, industries and railroads, real estate and other properties."

"Through all the 117 years of economic, political and social change, policy owners have relied on New York Life in the confident knowledge that claims will be paid promptly in accordance with the company's contractual obligations."

Carverton

The third Sunday night meeting under the combined Commissions on Social Concerns of the Carverton-Mt. Zion-Orange Methodist parish was held at the Carverton church Sunday night. It was a near-capacity congregation.

Pastor William Reid conducted devotions and presented Harry Lutz, chairman of the Commission who in turn introduced Rabbi Abram Barras, spiritual leader of Temple Israel, Wilkes-Barre, as the speaker.

With many humorous and also poignant anecdotes Rabbi Barras drove home the lesson of brotherhood, saying that we must learn to live together in harmony and peace or else all be destroyed together. He brought out that there is therapeutic value in helping one another.

At the time of the terrific bombing of London it was expected that there would be an increase of mental cases due to the nerve strain and panic. On the contrary the cases of mental breakdown were even less than in normal times. This was found to be due to the increased concern neighbors had for one another, helping each other in the disaster.

A fellowship hour was enjoyed afterward and many expressions of appreciation were heard on every side.

There's one thing to be said for children—they never pull out pictures of their grandparents.

Orange

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Baird of Sutton Creek road were delighted that son Barry, a student at Wilkes College has made the dean's list. Barry has been studying hard — and made it!

Last Thursday night at the Orange church pastor William Reid gave a dramatic presentation of the story of Paul the Apostle. After reading some selections from the Acts and Epistles for a background Mr. Reid came down from the pulpit and told the story of Paul in the first person, that is, as if he were Paul. While being strictly true to the New Testament facts his imaginative interpretation and weaving together of several items gathered from scattered sources made the story real and vivid. For instance, the part played by Gamaliel, a sainted teacher of the Law, and also the strong impression that must have been felt while the martyr Stephen was being stoned were high-lighted in helping us to see the background of forces working on Saul of Tarsus that came to a head in his experience of conversion on the Damascus road.

A number of members were present at this Lenten service from Carverton and Mt. Zion. The Orange choir sang.

Melting snow and heavy rains from the week gave evidence that gutters along the state and country highways can stand a little grading. Water covered a large section of the highways, carrying stones and other debris. Lower temperatures caused a dangerous ice condition. Water has also caused roads to break up creating dangerous pot holes.
