I noticed in last week's Dallas Post an item stating that the "onion" snow could be expected at any time. Well, we've certainly had it. Last Sunday, the crocus in our yard were buried under the snow for an hour or so, then, the sun would shine brightly for another little while before being snowed under again. You really had to look out the window to see if the ground was white or green at a particular moment.

Thomas Elston is spending several days with Mrs. Alice Elston. Tom is stationed temporarily in Washington D. C.

When the Post comes out on Thursday, it will be the day before Good Friday. At this Easter season let us meditate more on what it really means to us and our loved ones. For Jesus to have such a love as to give his life for us hath no one. May God's richest blessings be with you and yours at this season.
