Mt. Zion

Holy Thursday evening I conducted communion service at Derr Memorial Methodist church, Wilkes-Barre. I was assisted by Wesley Crompton. Mr. Crompton, brother of Dr. Richard Crompton, is a lay minister serving Derr Memorial on a part-time basis. From my observation gleaned from several times assisting in some of his services I believe he is doing a fine work there with a loyal membership making it possible. That loyalty is evident.

Our Dottie will be home Friday for part of Easter Sunday. Has a class first thing Monday morning. The evening grosbeaks, which are definitely a winter bird, were still coming to our windowsill bird-feeder last Saturday morning. They do clean up the sunflower seeds!

Last Sunday our Mt. Zion church used its new lights for the first. They are an ecclesiastical design, six sided of alabaster glass trimmed with gold-like metal, look much more "churchy" than the others. Also there is in use now a public address system whereby the church service can be heard easily both in the room back of the pulpit and in the Sunday School room downstairs. On Easter Sunday when the crowd will be overflowing at the 11 o'clock service none are likely to be turned away, merely ushered downstairs.

The youth choir sang a thrilling anthem, Hosanna, last Sunday. The choir consisting of Nadine VanTuyte, Susan LaBar, Sharon LaBar, Jacqueline VanTuyte, Linda Dymond, Corliss Hurrey and Karen Hronich was led by Mrs. Jean Hurrey, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hurrey, our neighbors a few rods down the road from here. Standing with the parents were Mrs. Margaret Liput and Mr. James Hurrey as god-parents. Little Sidney captured the hearts of the congregation with his quiet, sunny expression during the ceremony. His mother had carefully explained to him ahead of time what it would be like and so he was not in the least frightened. If parents would do that for their children it would make it easier for their children to get adjusted to the mysteries of a church service. I noticed that Corliss Hurrey from the choir was watching with sisterly interest the whole procedure.
