

Retreat State Hospital To Stage Open House For Public On May 6

Claude H. Butler, M. D., Superintendent of Retreat State Hospital announces that Open House will be held Sunday, May 6, in observance of national Mental Health Week. The public is urged to visit the hospital which serves the many surrounding communities.

"Today the mental hospital is changing," says Dr. Butler. "attention is shifting from having a high fence on the outside . . . or a hospital reached only by ferry . . . to having an effective treatment program on the inside. Buildings reflect a cheerful and optimistic look. Hospital routines are being changed to emphasize participation in occupational and recreational therapies rather than mere custodial care."

Visitors at Retreat will find that the arts have great therapeutic value. Music can be used to influence attitudes and moods, combatting tedium, discouragement, and feelings of exclusion.

At Retreat, music is taken in all wards in the form of singing, records, rhythm band, instrumental music as well as folk and square dances. It is used to lighten the moods of the wards.

Choral groups rehearse together. There is a glee club which is an orderly medium for socialization, contact with reality . . . and the pleasure of achievement as a group. From this group is selected an entertaining unit which goes into the community to present programs.

The new club was helped to organize by neighboring Kiwanis clubs of San Diego and Chula Vista. Formal charter presentation is scheduled for May 15.

Formation of the Tijuana Kiwanis Club came less than a year after a delegate body in Toronto approved such action in spreading the concept of Kiwanis into lands other than the United States and Canada.
