Eat Breakfast - The homemaker who is too busy to eat breakfast pays for it during the morning and even later in the day, reminds Mrs. Ruth J. Mozzi, Penn State extension foods and nutrition specialist. She pays with a let-down in a feeling of well-being, often responsible for nervousness, anger, and a lack of patience with everyday problems. But the woman who manages a good breakfast for herself and family can face the day with

Snap-down Collars - Many men's cotton sport shirts feature snapdown collars, reports Bernice J. Tharp, Penn State extension clothing spscialist. Similar to buttondown styles, snaps instead of buttons fasten the collar tips to the shirt. Because they're easy to fasten, snap-down collars are expected to be a big hit with men. Women also should like them since sewing on buttons will be elimin-

Work Dress Styles - Dresses for housework need to be easy to slip into, reminds Mrs. Mae Barton, Penn State extension clothing specialist. Button fronts and wrap-arounds are two popular styles. Women who don't care for either type can look for dresses with necklines openings large enough to avoid strain or fuss when dressing.
