What Do You Know
About The Library?

THEN

The Library was born at a meeting of representatives of many organizations of the Dallas area in November 1944. Thirteen thousand dollars was soon raised from friends in the area.

January 1945, the Association was incorporated and an old residence purchased for the Library. June 1945, a constitution was adopted and officers were elected. October 1945 the Library was dedicated and opened to the public.

Two thousand books on loan from the State Library and twenty-five hundred books belonging to the new Library, many donated from residents, composed reading and reference material.

To supply funds to support the Library, the Auction was started in 1946 and since that time, due to the generous support of its many friends, has met financial needs.

In 1950, a second property adjoining the original building was purchased to house additional books and provide a meeting place for the Board of Directors and other community organizations.

As a result of your interest and support, the Library has grown to nearly unbelievable proportions and represents one of the truly significant community enterprises of the State.

NOW

The Back Mountain Memorial Library now has 38,911 reading and reference books, housed in two buildings and constantly being replaced and augmented by newer and better books.

There were 3,478 active borrowers in 1961, with a circulation of 53,112 books and 18,415 people used the Library facilities.

Students were served in Dallas Area Schools, Lake-Lehman Joint School District, West Side Catholic High School, Wyoming Seminary and college residents of the area.

Communities from Noxen and Harveys Lake to Orange and Carverton and from Kingston Township to Sweet Valley and Silkworth continually use the Library.

It is the meeting place of the Book Club, Cancer Society, Civil War Round Table, Womens' Club Choral, Toastmasters' Club, Kennel Club and several other civic groups.

The Library Association fosters special groups and classes for all ages. Childrens groups are most popular while adults meet to discuss new books.

Periodically, large numbers of books are circulated to schools of the area for the use of students with special attention given to requests of the teachers.

The newest and best reference books are constantly being added to the special student section with science as well as general reference books being recently purchased.

It has become everybody's community interest and pride, as the many hundreds of willing Auction workers and supporters will attest each year.

AUCTION BRIEFS

E. V. Chadwick promises another beautiful display of flowers at the Plants and Produce booth. Donations of jams and jellies are solicited, also house plants, but please, no canned vegetables. They are not salable. Mrs. Ziba Smith is his co-chairman.

Park at the Dallas Borough School. Committee chairmen who have to go in and out frequently will be issued passes. Ask Bob Fleming.

The refreshment booth is well under control. An electric water heater has been obtained, so that making coffee will not be such an endless job. Dallas Senior Women's Club always mans this booth. Mrs. Richard O. Myers, chairman, urges anybody who is willing to help, to volunteer. Three big coffee makers should keep everybody happy when the breeze begins to turn chilly along toward midnight.

Gathered about the tea table at the Charles Frantz home in Chase, are some of the members of the Library Auction Antiques Committee who gathered to lay final plans for the July 5, 6 and 7 Auction.

Standing in the first row are Mrs. Russell Frantz, Miss Frances Dorrance, Mrs. Fred Howell, Mrs. Bruce Cardon, Mrs. Stewart Ferguson, Mrs. Harold Titman. Seated in the Boston rocker is Mrs. Mae Townend.

In the back row are Mrs. William B. Jeter, Mrs. George W. Carey Jr., Mrs. Bradford Alden, Mrs. Arch Hutchison, and hostess Mary Frantz.
